Gamble Prestige On Outcome

U.S., Soviet Clash In UN On Red China Seat Issue

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The United States and the Soviet Union have decided to gamble their prestige on the outcome of Peiping's bid for a U.N. seat.

This was made clear Friday as the two big powers clashed head-on in the opening round of the China debate. Both demonstrated they were determined to fight every step on the issue of whether the Formosa goverment of Chiang Kai-shek or the Communists get the seat.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson warned delegates that "the whole future of the United Nations is at stake" with the China representation question. The United Statesh as managed to keep the matter shelved for 10 years.

"If anyone still has any illusionsa bout the Communists' qualifications for membership in this respect, let him be reminded of the use of force by the Chinese Communists in theirh order disputes with India," Stevenson declared in a no-holds-barred speech.

"In its present mood," Stevenson said of the Red Chinese regime, "it is a massive and brutal threat to man's struggle to better his lot."

"Its gigantic power, its reckless ambition, and its unconcern for human values," he said, "make it the major world problem."

In a bid to win over some of Peiping's supporters, Stevenson accused the Communist Chinese of operating camps for young guerrillas in Asia, Africa and Latin America so they could touch off revolutions in their home countries.

Stevenson warned that to admit the Reds would have only one meaning: That the United Nations had knuckled under to Peiping's plan to conquer Formosa and "overthrow and abolish the independent government of the Republic of China."

The Soviet Union's swift retort to the American charges against the Chinese Reds made plain the Kremlin has decided to go much further than token support for the Communists' bid.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin accused Stevenson of trying to make the assembly believe that the Peiping government had split with Moscow.

"Any effort on the part of the United States or any other power to cast shadows or aspersions on rleations with the People's Republic is doomed in advance to failure," Zorin declared.

Woman Killed, Midland Man Injured In Collision

Station Car, Auto Collide At Industry

Monaca Wife, 41, Loses Life; Millman In 'Fair' Condition

A Monaca motorist became the fifth woman killed in Beaver County traffic accidents in 12 days when her station wagon collided with the auto of a Midland man today at 2:50 a.m. on Route 68 in Industry.

Mrs. Mildred M. Blistan, 41, was killed instantly and Dr. John W. Colavincenzo, Beaver County coroner, said she died of a broken neck.

John F. Doyle, 34, of 1149 Beaver Ave., Midland, is in "fair" condition at Rochester General with a fracture of the right hip and a severely lacerated nose. He was returning home from work at the Aliquippa Works of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Co.

Dr. Colavincenzo said there would be no inquest as the death was accidental.

He said two hunters, Alton Messenger of Lisbon R.D. 1 and James Butream of Lisbon R.D. 2 reported the Blistan vehicle passed them at a considerable speed.

The coroner said Doyle's car traveled about four feet after the impact while the station wagon hurtled about 80 feet.

According to Police Chief Guy St. Esprit and troopers of the Beaver County barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police near Beaver Falls, Mrs. Blistan was traveling east, in the direction of Beaver, and Doyle, west, when they collided.

Doyle's 1958 coupe came to a halt on the other side of the road with its rear against the wires stretched between guard posts.

The 1960 station wagon continued about 80 feet, hurdling a small culvert and landing on its wheels, facing the other direction about 25 feet from the highway.

Mrs. Blistan was found lying only a foot or two from the driver's side.

The accident occurred on the "brickyard stretch" of Route 68 beyond the Barclay Hill overpass and near the Dando Works of the H. K. Porter Co., Inc.

In two other fatal accidents, Mrs. Bessie M. Daw and Mrs. Lyda M. Rowen, both of Wellsville, were killed Sunday, when the auto in which they were passengers was rammed by another at an intersection on Route 251, four miles west of Beaver Falls.

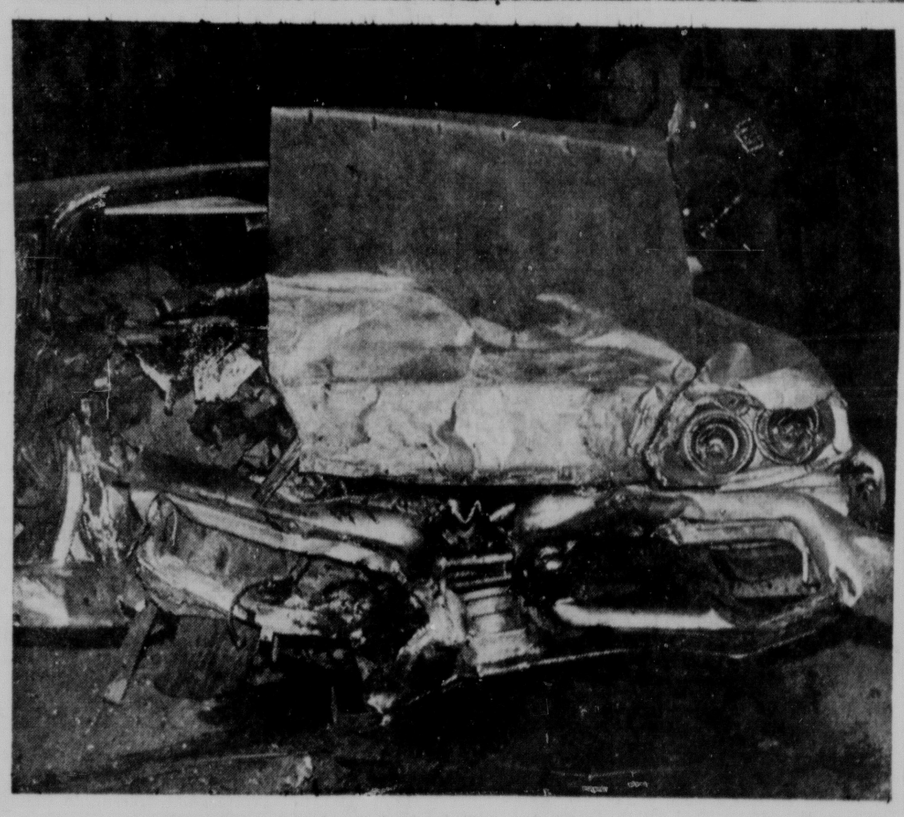

Mrs. Virginia Moore Rush of Newell and Mrs. Maria Lucas of Midland were killed Nov. 20 when their speeding runaway auto crashed near Beaver.

Mrs. Blistan drove a school bus for the Beaver County special pupil service and was a member of the Beaver County Chapter of the Pennsylvania Association for Retarded Children.

Anti-Missile Missile Fund To Be Sought

Kennedy Defense Chief Will Seek Congress Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara have decided to ask Congress for money to start tooling up for production of the Nike-Zeus anti-missile missile.

Informed sources said today Kennedy and McNamara had agreed on this at their conference in Hyannis Port, Mass., last week. They conferred on the new military budget to be submitted to Congress next month.

It was understood a recent string of test successes influenced the decision. It represents a victory for the Army in its long battle to get the missile-killing system into production.

The Kennedy administration, and the Eisenhower administration before it, had refused to allow even a start on limited production of the controversial anti-missile system pending additional tests.

Earlier this year McNamara told Congress there were "widespread doubts as to whether the Nike-Zeus system should ever be deployed."

Now, it has been learned, Kennedy and McNamara have decided there is enough evidence of indicated success to go ahead with limited production of long lead time items for the system.

A factor in the decision could have been what Pentagon sources said was firm information that the Soviets were making a strong effort to develop an antimissile system of their own.

The Army has contended that a start of production could cut from four to two years the expected time in which an antimissile defense could be deployed around a limited number of cities.

In the past there have been estimates that it would cost $8 billion to $15 billion to provide adequate protection for most major production and population centers and important military bases in the United States.

The Army wants to start turning out components, including specially designed tools, for the supersensitive radar used by the Nike-Zeus system to detect and track oncoming enemy missiles.

Figures were not available on the scope of the expected budget request for Nike-Zeus production. The Army has been reported asking about $385 million.

Action Hinted On Sunday's Skating Bans

An ordinance to amend present restrictions and permit roller skating on Sunday afternoons, killed months ago after a determined protest from the East Liverpool Ministerial Association, may be considered again at City Council's first December meeting Monday night.

The current ordinance governing operation of public roller rinks says flatly that no skating will be permitted on Sundays. It provides a fine of up to $100 or a six-month jail term for a violation.

An ordinance to permit the rinks to operate on Sunday afternoons was introduced months ago. But it never got to a vote because of protests presented to Council by members of the ministerial association the night the ordinance was to be considered.

James V. Flasco of Idaho Ave., chairman of the city Democratic Central Committee, operates the only roller rink in East Liverpool. He attended the session at which the Sunday skating ban was to be lifted. After hearing the protests from the ministers, Flasco told Council he was withdrawing his request for amendment of the present ban.

Council also is scheduled to consider legislation authorizing payment of a series of minor claims against the city. Approval of the bills was reported at the meeting Nov. 20 by the claims committee and Council ordered legislation to clear the way for payment.

Legislation also will be presented to accept the lowest and best bid on a $36,700 municipal bond issue on which Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate is scheduled to open bids Monday noon.

Castro Cited For Plot On Dominican

Training Underway For Invasion, Says Armed Force Chief

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Dominican armed forces chief Gen. Pedro Rodriguez Echavarria claims that Fidel Castro's regime is training an invasion force for an attack on this island nation less than 200 miles from Cuban shores.

Rodriguez Echavarria, the No. 2 man in the government of President Joaquin Balaguer, told newsmen Friday night he had reports that between 1,800 and 2,000 Central Americans were undergoing invasion training at three camps in Cuba's Sierra Maestra Mountains, Castro's stronghold of revolution days.

He charged that the general strikes that have gripped the nation since Tuesday—may have been part of an over-all plan to keep Dominican troops pinned down in the capital.

The strikes, centered in this capital, show signs of losing their steam but Rodriguez Echavarria said military reinforcements have been shifted to northern Dominican areas in anticipation of trouble. "We are not fools," he declared. "We are ready and keeping ourselves mobile."

The military leader said the armed forces have no plans at present to break up the strikes aimed at toppling the Balaguer regime. But he warned that if "the security of the state (is threatened), that's another thing."

He implied that he felt the strikes would die a natural death once "the strikers are convinced it is a political matter."

Calm returned to the capital with the approach of a government-imposed night-time curfew after a fourth day of machinegun rattling, which marked clashes between troops and antigovernment demonstrators. Ten women and a youth were injured, apparently by noise bomb blasts.

Spring-Like Weather Will Continue Sunday

Here it is December and what kind of weather do we have — spring, man, like spring!

And the Ohio weatherman said the mild temperatures will prevail over the weekend. Today's high range will be 48 to 53 and tonight's low 37 to 42.

The downtown had a balmy 44 this morning. Skies will be partly cloudy tonight and tomorrow, but no rain is forecast.

Burglars Get Clothing Loot In East End

Loss At Chambers Believed To Run 'Several Thousand'

"Several thousand dollars" worth of clothing and accessories and about $200 in cash were stolen by thieves who apparently used a rope to lower themselves into the Chambers Co., 540 Mulberry St., Friday night or early today, police reported.

In another burglary, hungry thieves made off with a whole beef weighing 447 pounds, 15 or more chickens, a turkey, roast, potatoes, cigars, cigarettes, candy and an undetermined amount of change from a vending machne at the Midway Diner on the River Rd. in a 30-minute period early this morning, police were told.

G. Willard Chambers, operator of the East End store, estimated the value of the loot at "several thousand dollars" but said an inventory will be required to determine the exact loss.

"A lot of suits and pants" along with topcoats, raincoats, jackets, shirts and billfolds were taken, Chambers added, but said the loss didn't appear to be as great as a burglary about five years ago when some $12,000 worth of clothing was taken. More suits were taken then, he explained.

Patrolman Jack Stroble was called to the store when clerks arrived at 9 a. m. and discovered the burglary. Police Capt. R. H. Pyle went to the scene a few minutes later.

The officers said the burglars apparently used a small ladder to climb onto a roof near the rear of the building and then crawled onto the main roof.

They broke through an abandoned skylight in the center and then apparently used a rope to lower themselves about 15 feet into the main storeroom.

Chambers said some boards in the ceiling had to be knocked loose to allow them inside. They left through a rear door.

The time the burglary occurred hasn't been determined, police said. The store closed at 9 p. m. Friday and reopened at 9 a. m. today.

Chambers said both the exterior and interior of the store remain lighted throughout the night. The exterior lights were installed after the previous burglary.

Banks Get OK To Offer 4% Interest On Deposits

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's 13,000 commercial banks have been granted federal permission to offer savers 4 per cent interest on $93 billion of deposits starting Jan. 1.

The present limit is 3 per cent and has been in effect for five years.

The higher maximum was authorized Friday night by the Federal Reserve Board and Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. so that banks can become more competitive with savings and loan associations, which generally have paid higher rates.

Another motive for the move was to encourage foreigners and others to keep funds on deposit in the United States rather than move them abroad because of interest rate competition. This would help the U.S. balance of payments situation.

No bank will have to pay higher interest rates as a result of the action. They merely have permission to do so.

"Experience suggests that any moves toward higher rates are likely to be gradual," the Reserve Board said. Many banks have yet to adopt the old 3 per cent maximum.

The 4 per cent ceiling will apply to time and savings deposits left in banks for a year or longer. Funds deposited for 6 to 12 months can earn up to 3.5 per cent, instead of 3 per cent. There was no change in the maximum rates on deposits of shorter duration. The rates are 2.5 per cent for 90 days to six months, and 1 per cent for up to 90 days.

The maximum must not be exceeded by any commercial banks covered by FDIC insurance. This includes all except about 300 very small institutions.

Advises City Folks

CINCINNATI (AP)—Dr. James Fitch, Columbia planning expert, says he thinks city folks better look ahead to the days when their private autos will be banned from the downtown areas. He told a University of Cincinnati audience Friday night Americans have a strong prejudice toward their cars, but must learn that "only pedestrian traffic makes cities."

Congo Resumes Ties With Soviet, 2 Others

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The Congolese government resumed diplomatic relations today with the Soviet Union, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Charge d'affairs of the three Communist missions presented their formal credentials to the Foreign Ministry.

The Congo government broke off relations with the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia in September 1960, immediately following the military coup of Gen. Joseph Mobutu.

Compassion 'Substitutes' For Punishment In Theft

The soft light of compassion can blur the immutable letter of the law, a generally stern jurist and a once-irate store - owner proved in Municipal Court Friday.

A switch in circumstances cast Judge Samuel M. Chertoff in the role of a sympathetic listener in stead of a justice - dispensing magistrate and made a benefactor of Martin Silverman, who had started as the aggrieved complaining witness.

It all happened in the case of Fred L. Mobley, 26, of 723 Commerce St., Wellsville, accused of theft of a pair of shoes worth $5.97 from King's Bargain Center on E. 5th St., operated by Silverman.

The facts were plain enough. Mobley took the shoes from stock, discarded an old pair and walked out of the store with the new footgear. He was nabbed outside, with the price tags still on the shoes.

Then the judge questioned Mobley about his circumstances. The Wellsville man said he and his wife have eight children and are expecting another in February. His wife, present at the hearing, confirmed the story.

Mobley explained he is an unemployed potter and his family's only support is from relief. He said his unemployment compensation benefits were exhausted long ago. His wife is an unemployed waitress and her jobless pay also has run out, he said.

Mobley pointed out to the judge that if he went to jail — either as a result of a sentence or an unpaid fine — his family's relief would be cut off for his failure to "work out" the payments.

At that point in the recital, Silverman discarded his role as complainant and stood up to address the court. He asked for leniency for the defendant.

Judge Chertoff complied. He lectured Mobley sternly, then gave him a suspended 30 - day term in County Jail on promise of good behavior.

Then came the denouement; Silverman announced Mobley could keep the stolen shoes as a gift.

The hearing ended with Mobley and his wife in tears, thanking the judge and the store-owner.

To Visit Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — President Kennedy is expected to visit Venezuela in mid-December, Foreign Minister Marcos Falcon Briceno said today. The White House said Thursday the dates for the visits had not been settled.

Red Party's Indicted By Federal Jury

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Communist party of the United States has been indicted for failing to register as an agent of the Soviet Union. Conviction could mean hundreds of thousands of dollars in fines.

The indictment was returned Friday by a federal grand jury at the request of the Justice Department. The 12-count charge accuses the party of failing to register by Nov. 20 as required by the Subversive Activities Control Act of 1950. The act was upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court earlier this year after a 10-year court battle between the party and the government.

In announcing the action, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said the party apparently has been beating a hasty retreat underground in anticipation of the indictment.

Future indictments against party officers and party members also are possible. The law required party officials to register Nov. 30, which they did not do. Party members are supposed to register by Dec. 20.

If convicted, the Communist party could be fined $10,000 for each day of nonregistration. Party officers could be fined $10,000 a day and sentenced to five years in prison for each day. And if party members ignore the December deadline, they could be subject to similar fines and prison sentences.

Red Party's Indicted By Federal Jury

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Communist party of the United States has been indicted for failing to register as an agent of the Soviet Union. Conviction could mean hundreds of thousands of dollars in fines.

The indictment was returned Friday by a federal grand jury at the request of the Justice Department. The 12-count charge accuses the party of failing to register by Nov. 20 as required by the Subversive Activities Control Act of 1950. The act was upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court earlier this year after a 10-year court battle between the party and the government.

In announcing the action, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said the party apparently has been beating a hasty retreat underground in anticipation of the indictment.

Future indictments against party officers and party members also are possible. The law required party officials to register Nov. 30, which they did not do. Party members are supposed to register by Dec. 20.

If convicted, the Communist party could be fined $10,000 for each day of nonregistration. Party officers could be fined $10,000 a day and sentenced to five years in prison for each day. And if party members ignore the December deadline, they could be subject to similar fines and prison sentences.

Burglars Get Clothing Loot In East End

Loss At Chambers Believed To Run 'Several Thousand'

"Several thousand dollars" worth of clothing and accessories and about $200 in cash were stolen by thieves who apparently used a rope to lower themselves into the Chambers Co., 540 Mulberry St., Friday night or early today, police reported.

In another burglary, hungry thieves made off with a whole beef weighing 447 pounds, 15 or more chickens, a turkey, roast, potatoes, cigars, cigarettes, candy and an undetermined amount of change from a vending machne at the Midway Diner on the River Rd. in a 30-minute period early this morning, police were told.

G. Willard Chambers, operator of the East End store, estimated the value of the loot at "several thousand dollars" but said an inventory will be required to determine the exact loss.

"A lot of suits and pants" along with topcoats, raincoats, jackets, shirts and billfolds were taken, Chambers added, but said the loss didn't appear to be as great as a burglary about five years ago when some $12,000 worth of clothing was taken. More suits were taken then, he explained.

Patrolman Jack Stroble was called to the store when clerks arrived at 9 a. m. and discovered the burglary. Police Capt. R. H. Pyle went to the scene a few minutes later.

The officers said the burglars apparently used a small ladder to climb onto a roof near the rear of the building and then crawled onto the main roof.

They broke through an abandoned skylight in the center and then apparently used a rope to lower themselves about 15 feet into the main storeroom.

Chambers said some boards in the ceiling had to be knocked loose to allow them inside. They left through a rear door.

The time the burglary occurred hasn't been determined, police said. The store closed at 9 p. m. Friday and reopened at 9 a. m. today.

Chambers said both the exterior and interior of the store remain lighted throughout the night. The exterior lights were installed after the previous burglary.

Bennie F. Johnson, 48, of West Bridgewater was cited on the charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor after a collision at 12:20 a. m. at Webber Way and Jefferson St.

William F. Pack, 42, of 617 Buckeye Ave., Wellsville, told police he had halted for a red traffic signal and started through when the light turned green.

Sisco told officers he was headed toward Wellsville about 35 miles an hour when a wheel struck a curb, causing him to veer into the utility pole.

The crash knocked down electrical lines and cut service to five homes, police said.

Thompson told police something went wrong with the unit and he lost control with his car plunging over an embankment. The front end of his 1958 sedan was damaged, police said.

Blair Is Chosen In OEA Position

Paul H. Blair, assistant school superintendent, and Clair D. Dunn of Toledo were elected to the executive committee of the Ohio Education Association Friday at Columbus.

The OEA's Department of Classroom Teachers elected Robert Dowling of Minerva, president, and Mae Brady Heyman of Massillon, secretary, among new officers.

2 Hookstown Youths Hurt

Two Hookstown area youths were treated for injuries at City Hospital at 1:20 a. m. today after the car in which they were passengers sideswiped another on Route 30, a quarter mile west of Laughlin Corners, police said.

The Carnegie barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police reported Richard Seik, 18, of Hookstown R. D. 1 was the driver of the car in which the two were riding.

Gary Brodmerkel, 16, of Hookstown R. D. 1 received lacerations of the scalp and contusions of the back, and Ronald Burris, 15, of Shippingport, contusions and abrasions of the forehead and back.

Police said the accident occured about 12:35 a. m. A 1961 car driven by Joseph Komazech, 47, of Aliquippa, was traveling west on a curve when Seik, traveling east and evidently at a high rate of speed on the wrong side of the road, came around the curve and sideswiped the other.

Police said the Seik car skidded and the driver lost control. It rolled over on its side and end over end and came to rest on its roof about 300 feet from point of impact and about 20 feet off the road.

Police still are investigating.

Vandals Break 2 Auto Windows

Two car windows and a pane of a Lisbon St. home were smashed by vandals hurling rocks and bottles, police reported.

A 28-by-32-inch window at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Sipe, 1168 Lisbon St., was broken by a rock late Friday night.

Mrs. Sipe told police she was in a kitchen downstairs when she heard a crash and found a livingroom window broken by a rock. Police said there was a possibility a car may have flipped the rock through the window.

Mrs. Ann Stevens of New Cumberland R.D. 2 told police vandals hurled a soft drink bottle through the rear window of her 1960 compact while she was attending a baby shower on Lisbon St. between 7:15 and 9:50 Friday night.

Minor Young, 410 Elm St., reported to police early this morning that a rear window in his station wagon had been cracked by air pellets. He first noticed the damage Tuesday, Young said.

East Germans Warn U.S. On Super-Road

BERLIN (AP)—East German Communists warned the United States today against any show of strength on the 110-mile autobahn connecting West Berlin with West Germany.

Neues Deutschland, the central organ of the East German regime, sharply criticized movement of U.S. troops along the superhighway through East Germany.

The U.S. Army announced Friday that two battle groups of an estimated 3,000 men would move along the autobahn soon replacing garrison troops in this divided city. Western powers recognize only Soviet control over the autobahn and insist on freedom of passage.

"They (the Americans) should realize that the result (of the troop movements) will not be a documentation of American strength but merely another proof of the necessity to solve the West Berlin problem peacefully," Neues Deutschland said. "The autobahn is property of the German Democratic Republic and nobody can do on it what he wants."

Soviet officials halted one U.S. convoy on the autobahn for more than an hour Friday after finding a flaw in their travel documents. The convoy was allowed to proceed after a U.S. official straightened out the papers.

The board has selected property of the West Virginia Fire Clay Co. as the sewage plant site. Refunds will be made to those customers in the north section of the community who will not at the present be included in the sewage disposal system's plans.

Bus Drivers Strike Averted In Beaver

BEAVER FALLS — A strike of drivers and mechanics of the Beaver Valley Motor Coach Co. was averted Thursday night about an hour before it was to start when the union and company agreed on a new two-year contract.

The contract with Local 1086, Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes, provides for a 5-cent hourly increase each year.

Representatives of the company and union reached an agreement on the pact early Thursday night and it was ratified by union members several hours later. The former contract expired at midnight Thursday.

Believes In Marxism

Castro Admits He Leads Cubans To Communism

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro, proclaiming, "I believe absolutely in Marxism," admitted publicly today he was leading Cuba down the road to communism.

"I am a Marxist-Leninist and will be one until the day I die," the Cuban prime minister declared in a midnight television speech.

"We must all study the experiences in building up the world's first Communist society," he said. "Socialism is a world reality today as the force defeating imperialism."

Castro jokingly added that if there was any anti-Communist listening to him "he does not need worry because there will be no communism (in Cuba) before 30 years."

Castro's statements were in sharp contrast to declarations that "ours is not a Communist revolution" made six months after he seized power from dictator Fulgencio Batista Jan. 1, 1959.

Apparently in reference to his anti-Communist statements, Castro said Friday night that until a few years ago he was "biased against communism because of imperialist propaganda." He said the change in his political thinking began after he seized power.

Castro praised Lenin for "developing Marx' and Engel's theories and putting them into practice. Marxism or scientific socialism has become the revolutionary movement of the working class," he said.

Castro's assertion that he was a confirmed Marxist was one of his strongest public admissions that he had been converted toward the Communist line.

He had implied as much by labeling Cuba a socialist state in a speech last May Day. The United States then declared for the first time that Castro was a full member of the Communist camp.

Castro, who ruled out elections in his May Day speech, declared Friday night that he was forming a single party that would unify all groups in his regime into a "strong and disciplined organization."

The Integrated Revolutionary Organization, embracing political, military, economic, labor and social groups, forms the foundation for the coming one-party system. The party will be called "the united party of Cuba's socialist revolution."

"There cannot be three or four movements," Castro said.

2 Men Questioned On Car Similarities

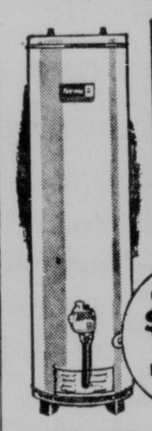

LISBON—Two Cleveland brothers, 26 and 28, were being questioned today by Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan after they were seen in identical 1955 Oldsmobile hardtops with the same license plate on the rear.

Deputy Herman Wellman was going north on Route 30 about 5:45 when he noticed them. He passed ahead and stopped the front car but the other vanished. After jailing one brother, the deputy returned to the highway and found the second car parked in a driveway.

Sheriff VanFossan, heading for work about 7:30, received a report of a hitch-hiker on Route 45 and took him into custody. He was the driver of the other car, the sheriff said.

A check showed the parked car had been stolen in Washington, Pa., early today, and registration was being traced on the other car.

Department of Higher Education Officers were also elected, including Dr. William Harrington of Bowling Green State University, president.

The OEA, following suit of the Ohio School Boards Association, decided to undertake a study of the state law which requires the teaching of Americanism before students can learn about communism.

Many educators are opposed to the so-called "Spirit of '76" law so nicknamed because it originated as House Bill 76. They claim they can do a better job teaching Americanism by simultaneously comparing it with the evils of communism.

2 Hookstown Youths Hurt

Two Hookstown area youths were treated for injuries at City Hospital at 1:20 a. m. today after the car in which they were passengers sideswiped another on Route 30, a quarter mile west of Laughlin Corners, police said.

The Carnegie barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police reported Richard Seik, 18, of Hookstown R. D. 1 was the driver of the car in which the two were riding.

Gary Brodmerkel, 16, of Hookstown R. D. 1 received lacerations of the scalp and contusions of the back, and Ronald Burris, 15, of Shippingport, contusions and abrasions of the forehead and back.

Police said the accident occured about 12:35 a. m. A 1961 car driven by Joseph Komazech, 47, of Aliquippa, was traveling west on a curve when Seik, traveling east and evidently at a high rate of speed on the wrong side of the road, came around the curve and sideswiped the other.

Police said the Seik car skidded and the driver lost control. It rolled over on its side and end over end and came to rest on its roof about 300 feet from point of impact and about 20 feet off the road.

Police still are investigating.

Vandals Break 2 Auto Windows

Two car windows and a pane of a Lisbon St. home were smashed by vandals hurling rocks and bottles, police reported.

A 28-by-32-inch window at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Sipe, 1168 Lisbon St., was broken by a rock late Friday night.

Mrs. Sipe told police she was in a kitchen downstairs when she heard a crash and found a livingroom window broken by a rock. Police said there was a possibility a car may have flipped the rock through the window.

Mrs. Ann Stevens of New Cumberland R.D. 2 told police vandals hurled a soft drink bottle through the rear window of her 1960 compact while she was attending a baby shower on Lisbon St. between 7:15 and 9:50 Friday night.

Minor Young, 410 Elm St., reported to police early this morning that a rear window in his station wagon had been cracked by air pellets. He first noticed the damage Tuesday, Young said.

East Germans Warn U.S. On Super-Road

BERLIN (AP)—East German Communists warned the United States today against any show of strength on the 110-mile autobahn connecting West Berlin with West Germany.

Neues Deutschland, the central organ of the East German regime, sharply criticized movement of U.S. troops along the superhighway through East Germany.

The U.S. Army announced Friday that two battle groups of an estimated 3,000 men would move along the autobahn soon replacing garrison troops in this divided city. Western powers recognize only Soviet control over the autobahn and insist on freedom of passage.

"They (the Americans) should realize that the result (of the troop movements) will not be a documentation of American strength but merely another proof of the necessity to solve the West Berlin problem peacefully," Neues Deutschland said. "The autobahn is property of the German Democratic Republic and nobody can do on it what he wants."

Soviet officials halted one U.S. convoy on the autobahn for more than an hour Friday after finding a flaw in their travel documents. The convoy was allowed to proceed after a U.S. official straightened out the papers.

Sewage Plant Bids' Analysis To Be Given

NEW CUMBERLAND — A detailed analysis of bids received by the Water and Sewage Board for construction of a new sewage disposal plant and improvements to the water system will be presented by A. R. Todd & Associates, Wheeling engineers, at a meeting Monday night.

Bids totaling $209,496.50 for the sewage disposal system and $29,526.38 for water improvements were received earlier by the board and referred to the Todd firm for study.

The board has selected property of the West Virginia Fire Clay Co. as the sewage plant site. Refunds will be made to those customers in the north section of the community who will not at the present be included in the sewage disposal system's plans.

Bus Drivers Strike Averted In Beaver

BEAVER FALLS — A strike of drivers and mechanics of the Beaver Valley Motor Coach Co. was averted Thursday night about an hour before it was to start when the union and company agreed on a new two-year contract.

Representatives of the company and union reached an agreement on the pact early Thursday night and it was ratified by union members several hours later. The former contract expired at midnight Thursday.

Two future Presidents were among 5,000 persons who gathered on the tree-shaded slopes of Arlington National Cemetery for the first official observance of Memorial Day in 1868. They were Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, an honored guest, and Gen. James A. Garfield, who delivered the oration.

Believes In Marxism

Castro Admits He Leads Cubans To Communism

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro, proclaiming, "I believe absolutely in Marxism," admitted publicly today he was leading Cuba down the road to communism.

"I am a Marxist-Leninist and will be one until the day I die," the Cuban prime minister declared in a midnight television speech.

"We must all study the experiences in building up the world's first Communist society," he said. "Socialism is a world reality today as the force defeating imperialism."

Castro jokingly added that if there was any anti-Communist listening to him "he does not need worry because there will be no communism (in Cuba) before 30 years."

Castro's statements were in sharp contrast to declarations that "ours is not a Communist revolution" made six months after he seized power from dictator Fulgencio Batista Jan. 1, 1959.

Apparently in reference to his anti-Communist statements, Castro said Friday night that until a few years ago he was "biased against communism because of imperialist propaganda." He said the change in his political thinking began after he seized power.

Castro praised Lenin for "developing Marx' and Engel's theories and putting them into practice. Marxism or scientific socialism has become the revolutionary movement of the working class," he said.

Castro's assertion that he was a confirmed Marxist was one of his strongest public admissions that he had been converted toward the Communist line.

He had implied as much by labeling Cuba a socialist state in a speech last May Day. The United States then declared for the first time that Castro was a full member of the Communist camp.

Castro, who ruled out elections in his May Day speech, declared Friday night that he was forming a single party that would unify all groups in his regime into a "strong and disciplined organization."

The Integrated Revolutionary Organization, embracing political, military, economic, labor and social groups, forms the foundation for the coming one-party system. The party will be called "the united party of Cuba's socialist revolution."

"There cannot be three or four movements," Castro said.

2 Men Questioned On Car Similarities

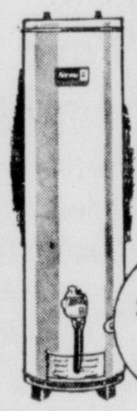

LISBON—Two Cleveland brothers, 26 and 28, were being questioned today by Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan after they were seen in identical 1955 Oldsmobile hardtops with the same license plate on the rear.

Deputy Herman Wellman was going north on Route 30 about 5:45 when he noticed them. He passed ahead and stopped the front car but the other vanished. After jailing one brother, the deputy returned to the highway and found the second car parked in a driveway.

Sheriff VanFossan, heading for work about 7:30, received a report of a hitch-hiker on Route 45 and took him into custody. He was the driver of the other car, the sheriff said.

A check showed the parked car had been stolen in Washington, Pa., early today, and registration was being traced on the other car.

Giving Them The Benefit

In his final word to the Ohio Legislature on the difference of opinion over appropriations, Gov. DiSalle made this concession to his opponents, most of them Republicans:

"It may not be the intention of the majority party to penalize the sick or the needy, but its actions will produce this result."

This had become a touchy point in the fight over the Assembly majority's handling of the DiSalle budget — whether or not the governor had any right to impugn the humanitarianism of his opponents because they questioned his arithmetic.

THE FACT IS and always has been that Republicans elected to state office are just as interested in the sick, and needy and all other deserving Ohioans as Democrats.

The fact is and always has been that Republicans, whether in the government of Ohio or the government in Washington, bitterly resent the manner in which Democrats present themselves to voters as the only bona fide friends of the human race because a bleeding heart has become their political trademark.

As the only effectual pleaders for moderation in public policy and prudence in public spending, Republicans stand accused by a certain type of Democratic politician as being deaf to the cries of their fellow Americans who need help.

Republicans, in turn, accuse a certain type of Democratic politician of being deaf to the cries of their fellow Americans going broke because there is no point of satiety in public taxation.

THERE HAS BEEN exaggeration on both sides.

Unfortunately, the exaggeration has left scars that are going to be hard to heal, and some of them are throbbing in Ohio. Gov. DiSalle is a man of strong conviction. He is compassionate. He wants to do the right thing by all the people of Ohio.

But his opponents in the Legislature are men of strong conviction, too. They are compassionate. They want to do the right thing by all the people of Ohio.

They had a difference of opinion with Gov. DiSalle over the arithmetic of his budget. They didn't accuse him of being deficient in arithmetic, but he accused them of being short on conpassion.

It would have been well if the difference had been confined to the arithmetic. Because it wasn't confined to that — because the governor impugned the humanitatianism of his opponents — permanent scars have been inflicted that will thump and throb long after the budgetary arithmetic has been forgotten.

We'll Catch Up!

Once More, Situation Normal

As reports of dissatisfaction among reservists called up for duty continue to accumulate, there is one question of prime importance:

Are the reports normal in volume?

There never has been a time in the United States when men called up for military duty were complacently happy about their lot once time began to drag?

There never has been a time when men called up for precautionary effect were satisfied with their training and living conditions.

From the Revolutionary soldier's sorry plight—unfed, unclothed and unhoused—to the World War II dogface's lack of galoshes in the slush of a European winter, military experience always has spelled SNAFU.

The point is that SNAFU itself is normal—Situation Normal All Fouled Up.

Individual dissatisfaction and collective complaints have been ample justified, whether they concerned unspeakable food in the Spanish-American War or torpedoes that wouldn't fire in World War II.

Americans accustomed to active useful lives have writhed in an agony of uselessness in military camps, hating the traditional life of a soldier, though it is comparable to the idleness once prized by Indian braves.

Men who hoped to make something of themselves have resented tapping out the passage of wasted days in training camps, where at best they learned to do something they did not like and at worst tasted the frustration of doing nothing at all.

These are normal conditions, normal states of mind. The only question is whether they now are accumulating in abnormal volume as the result of a precautionary military call-up. The problem is not peculiar to anything happening now.

It is concerned with the futility of militarism. Is has been faced by every general who ever commanded an army and by every government that ever needed an army.

How can you keep the morale of soldiers high when they are going through the motions of doing something they do not particularly want to do in case they must do something else they would rather not do at all?

Reuther Builds Political Machine

By Victor Riesel

Walter Ruether, that hard anonymous nonalcoholic, doesn't mind cocktail parties so long as he need not swallow them. Early in November, he received a phone call from Arthur Goldberg inviting him to such a soiree in the White House. He accepted.

Victor Riesel

On the appointed day he found himself with a score of his colleagues and President Kennedy, who soon was told by a labor spokesman that the unionists knew of the presidential burdens created by foreign tensions and that they would try to ease matters for the chief executive.

Reuther, always Reuther, though glass in hand, explained that he was abiding solely by ginger ale and addressed John Kennedy:

"It is fine," said Mr. R. "to take a drink and break bread at sociable gatherings. But it would be better to set aside two or three hours to talk about domestic problems — automation, unemployment and the economic condition of America. In our recent negotiations with the auto industry we made many gains but they did not result in creating any new jobs.

"This is the big problem."

PRESIDENT KENNEDY'S footwork was splendid and utterly belied the rocking chair. It certainly is, said JFK, and we must get labor and industry, too, and the best brains we have to tackle the gigantic problem. Both business and labor will have to be consulted.

In a while, Bill Doherty, head of the letter carriers union, told the President he was shocked to see a White House veto of postal increases. And Mr. Kennedy gravely said he, too, was for pay increases if we have the money to pay them.

Then the President moved to a group in which he spotted John Grogan, mayor of Hoboken, N.J., and president of the shipbuilding union. JFK congratulated Grogan.

He had been chairman of the New Jersey Labor Committee for Richard Hughes.

He had introduced Mr. Kennedy to 100,000 persons in and around Journal Square in Jersey City, at the big wind-up rally which the experts say swung the state for the Democrats.

"Mr. President," Grogan said, "our industry is in a bad way. Unemployment is high. Up in the Quincy, Mass., shipyards of Bethlehem Steel they're laying off several hundred workers a week, and in a month or so the yard will have to drop 4,000 more for the lack of orders.

"Can't the government increase its submarine building and its overhauling of our Navy: Bethlehem did build subs during the war and has a bid in. Our men could use the work."

THIS IS a great problem said the President. He indicated that he sympathized with the whole concept of a big submarine and surface fleet and would do everything humanly possible, including recommending a program that will mean increased shipbuilding jobs if at all possible.

A few days later, many of those who had been to the cocktail party were gathered at a two-day conference of Walter Reuther's Industrial Union Department of the AFL-CIO. Reuther assailed unions which are crowding him. And since good feuds make news, that got the coverage.

Most observers overlooked the conference's political decisions. Apprently Reuther has not the slightest intention of lobbying by cocktails or of counting solely on the friendship of John F. Kennedy.

The record shows that Mr. Reuther has been in the process of building a political machine within the political machinery of labor. The conference of the Industrial Union Department (a miniature CIO) decided that there are 40 marginal district which the industrial unions can take from their opponents in Congress.

"Some 40 'marginal' congressional districts can be influenced by the efforts of organized labor," the conference said in a special political resolution.

"The Industrial Union department recognizes the need for embarking on a field action program designed to implement the AFL-CIO's legislative goals.

The department has already set such a program in motion. This program calls for the formation of an Industrial Union Federal Legislative Committee in each of the target congressional districts."

EACH COMMITTEE, under the Reuther plan, will have representation from each industrial union in each region. Then they will coordinate and move politically as though they were in a joint-unionizing campaign.

If possible, they will try to force the nomination of one of their regional union officials on the congressional ticket.

Some will call this a purge drive in 40 districts, mostly in the Midwest. Some will see it as an effort to prove to the administration that the industrial union group can do more than ask for more.

If it succeeds, the drive will put some of these labor men, or the politicos they select, in a position where they can legislate, as well as lobby for, new laws and appropriations.

Space Lessons Brought To Earth

We defer to the strong imaginations of the dreamers who relate all experience in this beginning stage of space flight to the grand project of sending men to the moon.

They are thinking in a dimension too lofty for most of us. They will get to the moon if they try long enough, hard enough and skilfully enough. We believe in them. That is as far as we can go.

In the meantime, some of the things they will learn may help us in our daily lives, and that will be our reward for footing the bill of their fateful decision to hitch their space wagon to the stars.

One of the space lessons that might be brought to earth is their ability to control space craft from the ground by electronic devices.

When astronaut Enos, the 37½ pound chimpanzee, was overmatched in his flight this week and his capsule began to wobble and show other signs of trouble, the news was picked up in Australia, flashed to Cape Canaveral in Florida in a jiffy and a tracking station in California was notified to push a button that would compensate for the chimp's inadequacy and bring him safely to earth—in this instance the ocean.

To us earthlings this was the most impressive fail-safe device of all time. It made us think seriously of the possibilities of bringing to a stop all other chimpanzees who go into orbit and find themselves overmatched. We are thinking of the chimpanzees who drive space capsules called automobiles.

Tracking stations could note their erratic behavior and their capsules could be slowed down and brought to a half at the next receiving station for chimpanzees unable to control their vehicles. This would pare down the highway fatality toll to the disappearing point and lift from our bent shoulders some of the crushing burden of automobile insurance rates that are shooting for the moon.

As we say, we defer to the moon-reachers, and the sooner they get there the better. In the meantime, maybe they will learn something that will help the rest of us.

Cheerio, Mr. Klaus

By Truman Twill

Newspapers are beginning to hear from readers who think the Santa Clauses aren't up to snuff this year — and, of course, they aren't.

Santa Claus falls short of being up to snuff the first time he is seen in the flesh. Ideally, he exists only in the mind's eye, where all of us saw him first.

Whatever he looked like there was not what he turned out to be in the flesh because, in the first place, Santa Claus is supposed to be an elf and there are no elfin Santa Clauses.

Instead, in this king-size country there is a curious interest in overgrown Santa Clauses, all the better to hold you on my knee you great big overgrown lump of a kid you.

There also is a callous disregard of the specification for the belly of Santa Claus, which is round and shakes like a bowlful of jelly. (All specifications for S. Claus, it is understood, are from Clement Moore of the Columbia University Moores, the only man ever to have seen the real Santa Claus.)

Many Santa Clauses are lean—some are cadaverous. Many are angular and dyspeptic. Their noses are sometimes uncherrylike, being pinched and pale, instead. And alas, some of their noses are too red.

Everything about them is the opposite of jolly, unless they just happen to be feeling that way.

This is not a knock against Santa Clauses as an occupational group or as individuals .Some are excellent. Nearly all are earnest. But most Santas reflect a peculiar circumstance of American life.

They are too old to be on the list of useful citizens.

Or they have no skill to sell to an employer.

Or for some other reason they have nothing better to do at Christmas than dress up in Santa Claus suits. For most of them it's a job.

If they fall short of specifications, they're no shorter than members of other occupational groups. There are those among their critics who don't look or act the part they're playing either.

There are artisans who don't know their trade, professional people who scoff at their professional obligations.

There are all kinds of us who get sized up by Santa Clauses each Christmas, and perhaps it's better if we don't know how they feel. They keep their mouths shut.

They're doing the best they can under the circumstances, and all things considered they do as well as human beings ever do when stacked up against a figment of the imagination.

The Once Over

America's secret weapon may be a rocking chair. President Kennedy in rocker being interviewed for Izvestia was about as far north from a belligerent figure as world leader can get and the rocket may have caused many Russians to ask, "This is an aggressor?"

No world figure who wanted war, or wished to start trouble anywhere, ever did his stuff in such a chair. They functioned from balconies, reviewing-stands, military bases and coliseums. They rarely sat down, even to eat.

A rocking chair is a symbol of calm moods and peaceful desires. It may impress Commies everywhere (if they see it) more than the interview. Nothing that Khrushchev, Gromyko, Zorin and other Red leaders have been telling Russians about a warlike U.S. president fits John F. Kennedy and his rocking chair in a time of world crisis.

It's as difficult to see an aggressor in this type of chair as it would have been to have seen Caesar flat on a couch, Kaiser Bill in a hammock or Hitler, Lenin, Stalin or Khruchchev being interviewed squatting on a cabana hassock. No man seems an enemy in a rocker. It is possible that even Nikita asked "Who dat?"

Nobody can imagine Khrushchev touching a rocking chair unless assured it had a "pounding-table" attached and a pouch for shoes and slippers to be waved as needed.

We recall no photos of Russian chief in a sitting posture. If Kennedy picture is effective it might get the rocker into the international situation everywhere. We would chuck out the furniture in U.N. and substitute rockers. They repel distrust.

Let's have a world agreement to cut out parleys, notes, nuclear bombs, etc., and start testing rocking chairs. No fooling. A switch from "Take off your glasses" and "You and Who else?" to "That Old Rockin' Chair" or "Won't You Sit Down?" could change everything.

Down Through The Years

From The Review Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO — With a general average of 95 per cent in all subjects, Doris Roberts, a junior at Chester High School, headed a list of 28 honor roll students.

An Italian Fathers Club and Italian Young Men's Club were organized in East End.

Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Campbell of Fairview St., Chester, concluded a five-week vacation in Wyoming, Nebraska, Colorada and Iowa.

Malcolm W. Thompson and Francis H. Lang were appointed to the Defense Savings Committee for Ohio.

TEN YEARS AGO — Miss Miriam Price of Maplewood concluded a two-month visit with relaves in Sebring, Fla.

The East Liverpool Choir Parents Association, of which Marion Horger was president, appropriated funds for new portable risers for the choirs.

Extremist Groups

By David Lawrence

Freedom Riders Escape Administration Label

Much has been said lately about extremists. President Kennedy has assailed them in public speeches. So has Vice President Johnson. As one reads the headlines, however, it is becoming increasingly apparent that only one kind of extremists is in disfavor and that some of the others are actually extolled as heroes and champions of freedom.

David Lawrence

To plan to take the law into one's hands is bad when the "Minute Men" foolishly organize groups of their own, but somehow the same kind of tactics are given an heroic flavor in the phrase Freedom Riders.

Mississippi now reports a riot incited by Freedom Riders at a restaurant. Plans are being made for the exertion of pressure this week on the owners of restaurants — wholly disconnected from railroads or buses and operated as private businesses — along a Maryland highway.

Sit-in demonstrations that have aroused resentment or produced riots and even bloodshed are not being condemned by either President Kennedy or Attorney General Kennedy as the acts of extremists.

Everyone knows that widespread publicity is given in the press and radio in Europe to the Freedom Rides and sit-in demonstrations.

Yet who starts these things?

Members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and of another organization known as the Congress of Racial Equality participate in these demonstrations.

Is it possible that the administration here hesitates, for domestic political reasons, to denounce these tactics or those whose demonstrations unwittingly furnish publicity for the Communist criticisms of America?

It could be presumed that the Negro vote, which has benefited the administration in many elections, is too large to risk alienating it by any public criticism of the Negro organizations that are conducting the Freedom Rides.

MAYBE IF THEY HAD as few members and as little influence politically as the John Birchers, the Freedom Riders would have long ago brought down upon their heads the wrath of administration spokesmen.

The church organizations, too, are for the most part strangely silent. Though inevitably the Freedom Rides result in violence every now and then. It is the police who are denounced for alleged brutality when they make arrests or try to preserve order.

Indeed, some clergymen actually participate in the demonstrations and allow themselves to be arrested in order to get publicity for the cause they espouse.

There's no objection to anybody getting publicity for a cause but there is a distinct difference when the form of demonstration is calculated to cause violence.

WHAT IS the solution? Maybe it would be helpful to reread the following words from a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States:

"We consider the underlying policy of the plaintiff's argument to consist in the assumption that the enforced separation of the two races stamps the colored race with a badge of inferiority. If this be so, it is not by reason of anything found in the act (a state law), but solely because the colored race chooses to put that construction upon it. . . .

"The argument also assumes that social prejudices may be overcome by legislation, and that equal rights cannot be secured to the Negro except by an enforced co-mingling of the two races. We cannot accept this proposition.

"If the two races are to meet upon terms of social equality, it must be the result of natural affinities, a mutual appreciation of each other's merits and a voluntary consent of individuals.

"As was said by the Court of Appeals of New York, 'this end can neither be accomplished nor promoted by laws which conflict with the general sentiment of the community upon whom they are designed to operate. . . .

"Legislation is powerfless to eradicate racial instincts or to abolish distinctions based upon physical differences and the attempt to do so can only result in accentuating the difficulties of the present situation."

THE FOREGOING quotations come from the famous decision of 1986 known as "Plessy V. Ferguson," but they were repeated this year by Judge Ben Cameron of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in filing a dissenting opinion in connection with a case of racial disturbance on a bus line in Birmingham, Ala.

It was this same viewpoint which the Supreme Court of the United States in 1954 overturned, not on the basis of constitutional law or legal precedents, but by citing "modern authority" — namely, several treatises on psychology and social science.

Small wonder there are extremists who today form organizations to demonstrate against this form of modernisn in the federal judiciary.

Letters To The Editor

The football situation at East Liverpool High School has been on the downgrade now for a number of years. Now it has certainly reached an all-time low.

You read it in the blaring headlines of The Review, "ELHS To Meet Beaver Local In '62 Grid Season". Before we even have time to recover from the initial shock, the greatest of all farces hits us. "Also Seek Renewal Of Wellsville Series".

Then we're given a rundown of the possible schedule, which includes such patsies as Maple Hts., Bellaire St. John's, New Philadelphia and Youngstown Rayen.

We have nothing to gain by beating Beaver Local and Wellsville, but everything to lose.

I think Beaver Local should be congratulated on their football success and also in scheduling the Potters, which puts a feather in their cap.

Since when did Wellsville ever give us competition in football? Why does the school board think they could now?

The football fans of this city are good and sick of the football seen under the Venditti era, and when he left we thought his type of football went with him. I guess we were wrong.

The salary paid a football coach in this city is to the point of being ridiculous. To get quality you have to pay for it. We're not paying for it and we're not getting it.

The football fans of this city are getting disgusted. And who has the nerve to blame them. The brand of football played at ELHS can be seen on any sandlot.

If the school board wants big crowds, why don't they draw up a schedule worthy of big crowds? There are numerous schools in the state that play good football who would be willing to schedule us.

One school board member said, "I'm glad to see Beaver Local on the schedule. It looks like a good rivalry between two close schools." He was right on one point. The schools are close together, but how close does he think the score will be? Another said, "I think it will be a nice game". That statement is too ridiculous to even comment on.

It's pretty evident the school board is more worried about losing money in football than it is in playing a good caliber of football. If this is their worry, why don't they have a schedule with the stronger teams in Ohio on it? They'll draw crowds then. The football situation is deteriorating almost to the point of no return.

In closing, orchids to Beaver Local and onions to the ELHS school board and all their backward ways.

(Editor's Note—In fairness to Wellsville, it should be pointed out that the Tigers supplied East Liverpool with rugged competition time and again over the years. The record in the long rivalry stood at 25 victories for East Liverpool, 18 for Wellsville and 5 ties before it was discontinued several years ago. And it was only in the last few years of the series that the Potters were able to build their edge.)

Giving Them The Benefit

In his final word to the Ohio Legislature on the difference of opinion over appropriations, Gov. DiSalle made this concession to his opponents, most of them Republicans:

"It may not be the intention of the majority party to penalize the sick or the needy, but its actions will produce this result."

This had become a touchy point in the fight over the Assembly majority's handling of the DiSalle budget — whether or not the governor had any right to impugn the humanitarianism of his opponents because they questioned his arithmetic.

THE FACT IS and always has been that Republicans elected to state office are just as interested in the sick, and needy and all other deserving Ohioans as Democrats.

The fact is and always has been that Republicans, whether in the government of Ohio or the government in Washington, bitterly resent the manner in which Democrats present themselves to voters as the only bona fide friends of the human race because a bleeding heart has become their political trademark.

As the only effectual pleaders for moderation in public policy and prudence in public spending, Republicans stand accused by a certain type of Democratic politician as being deaf to the cries of their fellow Americans who need help.

Republicans, in turn, accuse a certain type of Democratic politician of being deaf to the cries of their fellow Americans going broke because there is no point of satiety in public taxation.

THERE HAS BEEN exaggeration on both sides.

Unfortunately, the exaggeration has left scars that are going to be hard to heal, and some of them are throbbing in Ohio. Gov. DiSalle is a man of strong conviction. He is compassionate. He wants to do the right thing by all the people of Ohio.

But his opponents in the Legislature are men of strong conviction, too. They are compassionate. They want to do the right thing by all the people of Ohio.

They had a difference of opinion with Gov. DiSalle over the arithmetic of his budget. They didn't accuse him of being deficient in arithmetic, but he accused them of being short on conpassion.

It would have been well if the difference had been confined to the arithmetic. Because it wasn't confined to that — because the governor impugned the humanitatianism of his opponents — permanent scars have been inflicted that will thump and throb long after the budgetary arithmetic has been forgotten.

Once More, Situation Normal

As reports of dissatisfaction among reservists called up for duty continue to accumulate, there is one question of prime importance:

Are the reports normal in volume?

There never has been a time in the United States when men called up for military duty were complacently happy about their lot once time began to drag?

There never has been a time when men called up for precautionary effect were satisfied with their training and living conditions.

From the Revolutionary soldier's sorry plight—unfed, unclothed and unhoused—to the World War II dogface's lack of galoshes in the slush of a European winter, military experience always has spelled SNAFU.

The point is that SNAFU itself is normal—Situation Normal All Fouled Up.

Individual dissatisfaction and collective complaints have been ample justified, whether they concerned unspeakable food in the Spanish-American War or torpedoes that wouldn't fire in World War II.

Americans accustomed to active useful lives have writhed in an agony of uselessness in military camps, hating the traditional life of a soldier, though it is comparable to the idleness once prized by Indian braves.

Men who hoped to make something of themselves have resented tapping out the passage of wasted days in training camps, where at best they learned to do something they did not like and at worst tasted the frustration of doing nothing at all.

These are normal conditions, normal states of mind. The only question is whether they now are accumulating in abnormal volume as the result of a precautionary military call-up. The problem is not peculiar to anything happening now.

It is concerned with the futility of militarism. Is has been faced by every general who ever commanded an army and by every government that ever needed an army.

"The Industrial Union department recognizes the need for embarking on a field action program designed to implement the AFL-CIO's legislative goals.

The department has already set such a program in motion. This program calls for the formation of an Industrial Union Federal Legislative Committee in each of the target congressional districts."

EACH COMMITTEE, under the Reuther plan, will have representation from each industrial union in each region. Then they will coordinate and move politically as though they were in a joint-unionizing campaign.

If possible, they will try to force the nomination of one of their regional union officials on the congressional ticket.

Some will call this a purge drive in 40 districts, mostly in the Midwest. Some will see it as an effort to prove to the administration that the industrial union group can do more than ask for more.

If it succeeds, the drive will put some of these labor men, or the politicos they select, in a position where they can legislate, as well as lobby for, new laws and appropriations.

Cheerio, Mr. Klaus

By Truman Twill

Newspapers are beginning to hear from readers who think the Santa Clauses aren't up to snuff this year — and, of course, they aren't.

Santa Claus falls short of being up to snuff the first time he is seen in the flesh. Ideally, he exists only in the mind's eye, where all of us saw him first.

Whatever he looked like there was not what he turned out to be in the flesh because, in the first place, Santa Claus is supposed to be an elf and there are no elfin Santa Clauses.

Instead, in this king-size country there is a curious interest in overgrown Santa Clauses, all the better to hold you on my knee you great big overgrown lump of a kid you.

There also is a callous disregard of the specification for the belly of Santa Claus, which is round and shakes like a bowlful of jelly. (All specifications for S. Claus, it is understood, are from Clement Moore of the Columbia University Moores, the only man ever to have seen the real Santa Claus.)

Many Santa Clauses are lean—some are cadaverous. Many are angular and dyspeptic. Their noses are sometimes uncherrylike, being pinched and pale, instead. And alas, some of their noses are too red.

Everything about them is the opposite of jolly, unless they just happen to be feeling that way.

This is not a knock against Santa Clauses as an occupational group or as individuals .Some are excellent. Nearly all are earnest. But most Santas reflect a peculiar circumstance of American life.

They are too old to be on the list of useful citizens.

Or they have no skill to sell to an employer.

Or for some other reason they have nothing better to do at Christmas than dress up in Santa Claus suits. For most of them it's a job.

If they fall short of specifications, they're no shorter than members of other occupational groups. There are those among their critics who don't look or act the part they're playing either.

There are artisans who don't know their trade, professional people who scoff at their professional obligations.

There are all kinds of us who get sized up by Santa Clauses each Christmas, and perhaps it's better if we don't know how they feel. They keep their mouths shut.

They're doing the best they can under the circumstances, and all things considered they do as well as human beings ever do when stacked up against a figment of the imagination.

Down Through The Years

From The Review Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO — With a general average of 95 per cent in all subjects, Doris Roberts, a junior at Chester High School, headed a list of 28 honor roll students.

An Italian Fathers Club and Italian Young Men's Club were organized in East End.

Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Campbell of Fairview St., Chester, concluded a five-week vacation in Wyoming, Nebraska, Colorada and Iowa.

Malcolm W. Thompson and Francis H. Lang were appointed to the Defense Savings Committee for Ohio.

TEN YEARS AGO — Miss Miriam Price of Maplewood concluded a two-month visit with relaves in Sebring, Fla.

The East Liverpool Choir Parents Association, of which Marion Horger was president, appropriated funds for new portable risers for the choirs.

Extremist Groups

By David Lawrence

Freedom Riders Escape Administration Label

Much has been said lately about extremists. President Kennedy has assailed them in public speeches. So has Vice President Johnson. As one reads the headlines, however, it is becoming increasingly apparent that only one kind of extremists is in disfavor and that some of the others are actually extolled as heroes and champions of freedom.

David Lawrence

To plan to take the law into one's hands is bad when the "Minute Men" foolishly organize groups of their own, but somehow the same kind of tactics are given an heroic flavor in the phrase Freedom Riders.

Mississippi now reports a riot incited by Freedom Riders at a restaurant. Plans are being made for the exertion of pressure this week on the owners of restaurants — wholly disconnected from railroads or buses and operated as private businesses — along a Maryland highway.

Sit-in demonstrations that have aroused resentment or produced riots and even bloodshed are not being condemned by either President Kennedy or Attorney General Kennedy as the acts of extremists.

Everyone knows that widespread publicity is given in the press and radio in Europe to the Freedom Rides and sit-in demonstrations.

Yet who starts these things?

Members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and of another organization known as the Congress of Racial Equality participate in these demonstrations.

Is it possible that the administration here hesitates, for domestic political reasons, to denounce these tactics or those whose demonstrations unwittingly furnish publicity for the Communist criticisms of America?

It could be presumed that the Negro vote, which has benefited the administration in many elections, is too large to risk alienating it by any public criticism of the Negro organizations that are conducting the Freedom Rides.

MAYBE IF THEY HAD as few members and as little influence politically as the John Birchers, the Freedom Riders would have long ago brought down upon their heads the wrath of administration spokesmen.

The church organizations, too, are for the most part strangely silent. Though inevitably the Freedom Rides result in violence every now and then. It is the police who are denounced for alleged brutality when they make arrests or try to preserve order.

Indeed, some clergymen actually participate in the demonstrations and allow themselves to be arrested in order to get publicity for the cause they espouse.

There's no objection to anybody getting publicity for a cause but there is a distinct difference when the form of demonstration is calculated to cause violence.

WHAT IS the solution? Maybe it would be helpful to reread the following words from a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States:

"We consider the underlying policy of the plaintiff's argument to consist in the assumption that the enforced separation of the two races stamps the colored race with a badge of inferiority. If this be so, it is not by reason of anything found in the act (a state law), but solely because the colored race chooses to put that construction upon it. . . .

"The argument also assumes that social prejudices may be overcome by legislation, and that equal rights cannot be secured to the Negro except by an enforced co-mingling of the two races. We cannot accept this proposition.

"If the two races are to meet upon terms of social equality, it must be the result of natural affinities, a mutual appreciation of each other's merits and a voluntary consent of individuals.

"As was said by the Court of Appeals of New York, 'this end can neither be accomplished nor promoted by laws which conflict with the general sentiment of the community upon whom they are designed to operate. . . .

"Legislation is powerfless to eradicate racial instincts or to abolish distinctions based upon physical differences and the attempt to do so can only result in accentuating the difficulties of the present situation."

THE FOREGOING quotations come from the famous decision of 1986 known as "Plessy V. Ferguson," but they were repeated this year by Judge Ben Cameron of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in filing a dissenting opinion in connection with a case of racial disturbance on a bus line in Birmingham, Ala.

It was this same viewpoint which the Supreme Court of the United States in 1954 overturned, not on the basis of constitutional law or legal precedents, but by citing "modern authority" — namely, several treatises on psychology and social science.

Small wonder there are extremists who today form organizations to demonstrate against this form of modernisn in the federal judiciary.

Letters To The Editor

The football situation at East Liverpool High School has been on the downgrade now for a number of years. Now it has certainly reached an all-time low.

You read it in the blaring headlines of The Review, "ELHS To Meet Beaver Local In '62 Grid Season". Before we even have time to recover from the initial shock, the greatest of all farces hits us. "Also Seek Renewal Of Wellsville Series".

Then we're given a rundown of the possible schedule, which includes such patsies as Maple Hts., Bellaire St. John's, New Philadelphia and Youngstown Rayen.

We have nothing to gain by beating Beaver Local and Wellsville, but everything to lose.

I think Beaver Local should be congratulated on their football success and also in scheduling the Potters, which puts a feather in their cap.

Since when did Wellsville ever give us competition in football? Why does the school board think they could now?

The football fans of this city are good and sick of the football seen under the Venditti era, and when he left we thought his type of football went with him. I guess we were wrong.

The salary paid a football coach in this city is to the point of being ridiculous. To get quality you have to pay for it. We're not paying for it and we're not getting it.

The football fans of this city are getting disgusted. And who has the nerve to blame them. The brand of football played at ELHS can be seen on any sandlot.

If the school board wants big crowds, why don't they draw up a schedule worthy of big crowds? There are numerous schools in the state that play good football who would be willing to schedule us.

One school board member said, "I'm glad to see Beaver Local on the schedule. It looks like a good rivalry between two close schools." He was right on one point. The schools are close together, but how close does he think the score will be? Another said, "I think it will be a nice game". That statement is too ridiculous to even comment on.

It's pretty evident the school board is more worried about losing money in football than it is in playing a good caliber of football. If this is their worry, why don't they have a schedule with the stronger teams in Ohio on it? They'll draw crowds then. The football situation is deteriorating almost to the point of no return.

In closing, orchids to Beaver Local and onions to the ELHS school board and all their backward ways.

(Editor's Note—In fairness to Wellsville, it should be pointed out that the Tigers supplied East Liverpool with rugged competition time and again over the years. The record in the long rivalry stood at 25 victories for East Liverpool, 18 for Wellsville and 5 ties before it was discontinued several years ago. And it was only in the last few years of the series that the Potters were able to build their edge.)

Loblaw Pact Up For Vote

A meeting is scheduled Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Penn-Sheraton Hotel in Pittsburgh for 1,500 employes of 51 Loblaw, Inc., supermarkets in the Tri-State Area to act on a tentative agreement on a new wage contract.

Forty employes of the two Loblaw supermarkets in East Liverpool are members of Local 590, Amalgamated Food Employes Union, covered in the tentative agreement.

Local 590's contract with Loblaw expires at midnight Sunday. Terms of the new agreement are believed to follow the pattern of the local's contract made last summer with the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., for two years, providing a 22½-cent-an-hour wage package.

The 30-member staff of the Loblaw store on Dresden Ave. and 10 employes in the meat department of the Bradshaw Ave. supermarket are covered in the tentative agreement reached late Friday by Local 590 meeting at Bradford, Pa.

The grocery department employes of the Bradshaw Ave. store are members of another union, Retail Clerks Local 133 of East Liverpool. They have been negotiating for a new contract since the old agreement expired Oct. 31. Mrs. Bernice Pierce is steward, and about 50 employes are members of Local 133.

Mrs. Marcelene Carpenter, steward of the Dresden Ave. union employes, said several plan to attend the meeting tomorrow in Pittsburgh.

Social Security Tax To Rise For Employed, Employer

Effective Jan. 1, a new Social Security tax rate goes into effect for nine out of ten working people.

For employed people the 1962 rate is 3⅛ per cent for employe and employer, a total increase of one-fourth of 1 per cent. For self-employed people, the new rate is 4.7 per cent, an increase of three-sixteenths of 1 per cent.

The maximum taxable earnings remain at $4,800 during the tax year in earnings, net income from self-employment, or a combination of both.

In dollars and cents the increase means that an employed person earning $4,800 or more during 1962 will pay $150 in Social Security tax instead of the $144 he paid on these earnings in 1961.

With 52 weekly checks totalling $4,800, about 12 cents more will be withheld from each check. His employer's tax will also be about 12 cents more a week.

A self-employed person netting as much as $4,800 will pay $225.50 instead of $216 for the year. Spread over 12 months, this is about 79 cents more a month, or by the quarter, $2.38 more.

In line with its policy of setting a schedule of Social Security tax rates sufficient to meet the cost of all present and future insurance benefits, Congress provided for the increase to finance four significant program changes effective with the 1961 amendments signed by President Kennedy late last June. These changes —

2.—Increase by about 10 per cent monthly benefits due 62-year-old or older widows getting benefits on the accounts of their husbands, dependent widowers and dependent parents.

3.—Raised the minimum old-age benefit payable to a 65-year-old or older retired worker or to a sole survivor of a deceased worker from $33 to $40 a month, with corresponding increases for dependents and other survivors of workers due less than $40 a month in unreduced benefits under the old law.

4.—Reduce the amount of work needed to qualify for benefits, allowing many workers, dependents and survivors who were not eligible under previous work requirement provisions to get benefits.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The legislative committee created to study state government operations and financing will work in two groups. Sen. Charles E. Fry, R-Clark, will head the group on fiscal study and Rep. Fred K. Casel, R-Wyandot, head the group on government operations.

Bliss Warns GOP

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "Do not be deluded by local wins in 1961 . . . we are going to have to turn every wheel to carry Ohio in 1962," Ohio Republican Chairman Ray C. Bliss warned his party Friday. The occasion was the first meeting of the GOP State Central and Executive Committee this year, a briefing on developments since the 1960 election when Republicans carried Ohio.

Tobin Warns On Adoption

Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin has issued a statement reminding the public of a new Ohio law which went into effect in October regarding adoption proceedings and penalties for violations.

The new law declares that no child of any age can be received or placed for adoption or with interest to adopt except through a county welfare department or a similar agency.

Also no child can be placed or accepted into temporary or permanent custody of any person or association not certified by the Division of Social Administration.

"Fundamentally," Judge Tobin explains, "this means that no one, either parent or well-meaning persons, whether attorneys, doctors, relatives or other persons, can dicker for or enter into agreements and obtain children for placement or adoption except through the welfare department or a similar agency. The penalty is $500 to $1,000 fine and or six months in jail"

"The court will no longer approve adoptions where children were obtained illegally as defined by this law. I am emphasizing the aspects of the new law so as to prevent heartaches by people who rush into these illegal transactions no matter how well-meant the intentions may be and find themselves later in a position where the children will be taken from them and placed with the welfare department.

"The public is urged not to be talked into these 'deals' that can only result in sorrow and prosecution by the welfare department whenever such cases come to their attention. When a child is sought for adoption, check with the welfare department or with Catholic Charities if one is a Catholic."

Meals Theme Slated For Group's Meeting

A program on "quick meals" will be presented at a meeting of the Liverpool Township Home Demonstration Group Wednesday at 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Betty Flanagan of Martha Ave.

Mrs. Flanagan and Mrs. June Robinson will be leaders. Members are to bring 50 cents for their quick meal, according to Miss Julia Shank, county extension agent in home economics.

Atlas, Polaris Score Important Test Successes

The Polaris, an advanced A2 model, zipped from a land pad and raced more than 1,000 miles, radioing back data on performance of warhead components, the major objective of the flight.

The A2 is scheduled to become operational early in 1962. It will have a range of 1,725 miles, nearly 400 miles further than the earlier A1, 96 of which are on patrol aboard six nuclear submarines.

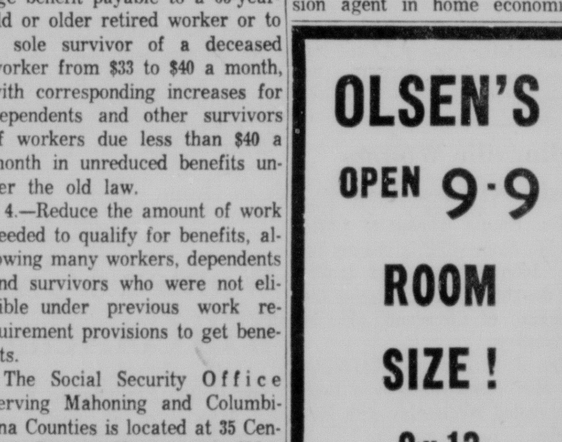

The Atlas zoomed 5,000 miles to its target in another test to evaluate over-all performance of the big intercontinental range war rocket. The Atlas also ejected 32 small capsules containing potassium, sodium and other inflammable elements. As they hit the heat barrier of the atmosphere about 80 miles over the southern Atlantic Ocean, they erupted into brilliant blue, yellow and violet flares.

By studying the ionization trails created by the flares, scientists hope to learn much about how radioactive material will disperse in the atmosphere.

Her Freedom Short

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pauline Van Dam posted $7,500 bond in U.S. District Court Friday but her freedom lasted only as long as it took Cincinnati police to re-arrest her on a charge of car theft. The city charge was linked to the federal court case, where she faces indictments charging interstate transport of a stolen car and a revolver.

Atlas, Polaris Score Important Test Successes

The Polaris, an advanced A2 model, zipped from a land pad and raced more than 1,000 miles, radioing back data on performance of warhead components, the major objective of the flight.

The A2 is scheduled to become operational early in 1962. It will have a range of 1,725 miles, nearly 400 miles further than the earlier A1, 96 of which are on patrol aboard six nuclear submarines.

The Atlas zoomed 5,000 miles to its target in another test to evaluate over-all performance of the big intercontinental range war rocket. The Atlas also ejected 32 small capsules containing potassium, sodium and other inflammable elements. As they hit the heat barrier of the atmosphere about 80 miles over the southern Atlantic Ocean, they erupted into brilliant blue, yellow and violet flares.

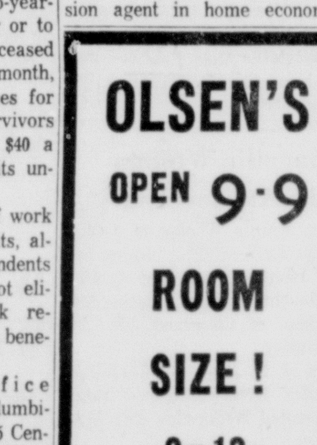

By studying the ionization trails created by the flares, scientists hope to learn much about how radioactive material will disperse in the atmosphere.

Her Freedom Short

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pauline Van Dam posted $7,500 bond in U.S. District Court Friday but her freedom lasted only as long as it took Cincinnati police to re-arrest her on a charge of car theft. The city charge was linked to the federal court case, where she faces indictments charging interstate transport of a stolen car and a revolver.

Finding God's Healing Power

A young couple entered St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Philadelphia to attend a healing service. Andrew, age 7, clinging to his father's hand was very ill. A victim of polio, then encephalitis, he had been left with a loss of hearing and the use of only one eye. Then he had come down with a particularly virulent case of chicken pox. The vicious circle of disease had left him weak, nervous and undernourished.

DR. PEALE

When the service was over the family found a nearby restaurant. At the table, his parents noticed that Andy sat up straight and his eyes were sparklnig. "Please, may I have some spinach, a big hamburger on a bun and some mashed potatoes, with two glasses of milk?" The parents struggled with tears of joy as they watched their son eat as he had not done for some eight months.

IN THE WEEKS that followed the boy gained strength steadily and was able to undergo a long-hoped-for operation to restore the sight of his injured eye. The operation was a complete success. Today Andy is a healthy teenager, active in his home church and full of thanksgiving for God's healing power in his life.

This is one of the touching human dramas in a fascinating book "Finding God's Healing Power" by Gertrude D. McKelvey which relates how many people have found new life through the church's ministry of healing.

Nowadays most ministers and doctors believe firmly that God often uses both medical and spiritual thearpy in restoring health. We are now more clearly aware than ever that there are available to us greater aids to healing through the realm of the spirit than we have ever been willing to admit.

I often have observed the effectiveness of the "God and the Doctor" combination, that is, the joint healing effect of the spiritual and the medical.

One case was a woman who had developed a painful, pronounced limp in her left leg. Her physician, a spiritually sensitive and perceptive man, suggested she attend healing services in the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral in their midwestern city. She did this and after praying most earnestly through several of the services, this suffering woman asked the dean of the cathedral for an interview.

DURING THEIR talk, she admitted feelings of intense hatred of her son-in-law. Her daughter had married against the mother's will. Accordingly this woman had "cast off her daughter" and would have nothing whatsoever to do with her or her husband. All communication between them ceased. About that time her leg difficulty developed.

The dean, who through long experience and spiritual insight knew that pain and trouble in the mind often reappear in physical ways, felt there might be a relationship between the hate situation and the physical trouble.

He consulted the physican and outlined his suspicion, which jibed with the doctor's own conclusions in the case. "That is exactly why I advised her to attend your healing services," the medical man explained.

When the woman appeared for the next healing service, the dean called her into his office and explained the effect of hatred on the human organism. He urged her to rid herself of her ill feelings. With considerable pain of spirit and deep heart - searching, the woman did as he suggested.

She let go her hate and seemed to experience a real change — the validity of which was indicated when she went to see her daughter and son-in-law. She admitted to them the wrongness of her past actions and humbly asked their forgiveness. As their relationship deepened in love and understanding the mother's physical condition improved. She now walks without a limp, the pain has gone; and the woman seems well.

There is indeed much truth in the old hymn:

The healing of His seamless dress
Is by our beds of pain;
We touch Him in life's throng and press,
And we are whole again.

Supt. T. L. Fultz said any remembrance for these youths would be deeply appreciated and any person wishing to donate a present may send it in a box marked with the age of the boy for which it is intended and the county of origin. Fultz said the box should not be gift - wrapped, but wrappings may be sent inside the package so that it can be wrapped at the school.

In Old Church Box

Cornerstone Rich In 1888 Items

A crumbling packet of faded literature and newspapers published in 1888, plus a few tarnished coins, were found beneath the cornerstone removed Friday afternoon from the abandoned Trinity United Presbyterian Church on E. 4th St.

The packet and coins were found in a rusted iron box that was cemented in a niche under the concrete cornerstone laid 73 years ago.

The elements had caused the iron box to rust badly and it crumbled into bits as it was removed from beneath the cornerstone.

The two officials said they ripped the cornerstone from the E. 4th St. side of the church and found it empty. Continuing to search, they brushed away layers of dust and particles of brick to uncover the top of the rusted iron box.

The literature includes a book of common worship, a roll book of the membership in 1888, a copy of the Crisis newspaper, three copies of the Platform newspaper published in Canton, a copy of the Presbyterian Banner of Pittsburgh, and copies of the Evening Review and Tribune of Oct. 20, 1888.

One of the early religious publications carried a headline declaring "The Saloons Must Go," symbolic cry of the temperance crusades which eventually led to the prohibition era.

Pressed between two of the pamphlets were a silver dollar and a five-cent piece dated 1888, an indian-head penny, and paper five-cent note. There was also a Bible in the packet.

Baumgarner said the items will be placed on display in the new Trinity United Presbyterian Church on Maine Blvd. now used by the congregation.

He said records indicate that the cornerstone was laid in 1888, but that the church was not actually completed until 1890-1891.

About that time her leg difficulty developed.

The dean, who through long experience and spiritual insight knew that pain and trouble in the mind often reappear in physical ways, felt there might be a relationship between the hate situation and the physical trouble.

He consulted the physican and outlined his suspicion, which jibed with the doctor's own conclusions in the case. "That is exactly why I advised her to attend your healing services," the medical man explained.

When the woman appeared for the next healing service, the dean called her into his office and explained the effect of hatred on the human organism. He urged her to rid herself of her ill feelings. With considerable pain of spirit and deep heart - searching, the woman did as he suggested.

She let go her hate and seemed to experience a real change — the validity of which was indicated when she went to see her daughter and son-in-law. She admitted to them the wrongness of her past actions and humbly asked their forgiveness. As their relationship deepened in love and understanding the mother's physical condition improved. She now walks without a limp, the pain has gone; and the woman seems well.

There is indeed much truth in the old hymn:

The healing of His seamless dress
Is by our beds of pain;
We touch Him in life's throng and press,
And we are whole again.

Supt. T. L. Fultz said any remembrance for these youths would be deeply appreciated and any person wishing to donate a present may send it in a box marked with the age of the boy for which it is intended and the county of origin. Fultz said the box should not be gift - wrapped, but wrappings may be sent inside the package so that it can be wrapped at the school.

In Old Church Box

Cornerstone Rich In 1888 Items

A crumbling packet of faded literature and newspapers published in 1888, plus a few tarnished coins, were found beneath the cornerstone removed Friday afternoon from the abandoned Trinity United Presbyterian Church on E. 4th St.

The packet and coins were found in a rusted iron box that was cemented in a niche under the concrete cornerstone laid 73 years ago.

The elements had caused the iron box to rust badly and it crumbled into bits as it was removed from beneath the cornerstone.

The two officials said they ripped the cornerstone from the E. 4th St. side of the church and found it empty. Continuing to search, they brushed away layers of dust and particles of brick to uncover the top of the rusted iron box.

The literature includes a book of common worship, a roll book of the membership in 1888, a copy of the Crisis newspaper, three copies of the Platform newspaper published in Canton, a copy of the Presbyterian Banner of Pittsburgh, and copies of the Evening Review and Tribune of Oct. 20, 1888.

One of the early religious publications carried a headline declaring "The Saloons Must Go," symbolic cry of the temperance crusades which eventually led to the prohibition era.

Pressed between two of the pamphlets were a silver dollar and a five-cent piece dated 1888, an indian-head penny, and paper five-cent note. There was also a Bible in the packet.

Baumgarner said the items will be placed on display in the new Trinity United Presbyterian Church on Maine Blvd. now used by the congregation.

He said records indicate that the cornerstone was laid in 1888, but that the church was not actually completed until 1890-1891.

TO UNDERSTANDING

Suppose you were given keys that would unlock the mysteries of the universe. With them, you could answer the "whys" that plague all of us. You'd know what was going to happen to you and those around you tomorrow—next month—next year.

Would you use them?

Of course, you say! Think again. And, once you've thought, you might shake your head, hand them back, and say, "No thank you."

Common sense tells us that man was not meant to understand every mystery of life. The reasons "why" remain as they are because our Creator in His wisdom thoroughly knows just how much man can both stand and understand.

God has a greater gift for you than these, or any other keys . . . the gift of Faith. You will find it by going to church regularly.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

TO UNDERSTANDING

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Job	36	5-12
Monday	Job	42	1-6
Tuesday	Matthew	6	25-34
Wednesday	I Corinthians	13	1-13
Thursday	Galatians	3	6-14
Friday	Matthew	8	5-13
Saturday	I Corinthians	2	1-10

Suppose you were given keys that would unlock the mysteries of the universe. With them, you could answer the "whys" that plague all of us. You'd know what was going to happen to you and those around you tomorrow—next month—next year.

Would you use them?

Of course, you say! Think again. And, once you've thought, you might shake your head, hand them back, and say, "No thank you."

Common sense tells us that man was not meant to understand every mystery of life. The reasons "why" remain as they are because our Creator in His wisdom thoroughly knows just how much man can both stand and understand.

God has a greater gift for you than these, or any other keys . . . the gift of Faith. You will find it by going to church regularly.

Booklet Pictures Wellsville Unit Of Sulphur Firm

A brief description and two pictures of the Freeport Sulphur Co.'s terminal at Wellsville is included in the company's 1961 publication covering its operations.

The Wellsville terminal on the Ohio River serves Ohio, Pennsylvania, western New York and areas as distant as southern Canada, the publication said.

It lists the present storage capacity as 20,000 long tons of liquid, with facilities to provide for loading of both rail tank cars and tank trucks. The terminal is also served by the Pennsylvania Railroad Co.

The publication also pictures a high-speed special — purpose river tow, longer than the Queen Elizabeth, which visits the Wellsville terminal. The two carries 10,000 long tons of liquid sulphur and makes the round trip from New Orleans to Joilet, Ill., in about 15 days.

Freeport's terminals are supplied from Port Sulphur, La., Freeport's deep - water shipping point 45 miles south of New Orleans on the Mississippi River.

Newell Whips Augusta, 73-54; Midland Wins Easily

Bell, Staley Sparkle In Viking Win

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

Anchored by the scoring of lettermen Dave Bell and Mick Staley, Newell High's Vikings took an early lead and then went on to pick up a 73-54 victory over Augusta Friday night at the Wells High gym.

Coach John Robison started his 19th season on the right foot as the contest marked the 1961-62 opener for the Vikings.

The smaller Augusta squad brought a 1-1 record to Newell Friday night, but could not keep pace with the red hot Green and White cagers.

Augusta took more shots — 86 — but hit on only 22 for a 25 per cent mark.

Bell, a southpaw shooting junior, got off to a slow start, scoring only one field goal in the first quarter, but then peppered the nets for a game total of 24.

Staley, starting his fourth year as a regular, but slowed by a leg injury, scored consistently throughout the fray and wound up with 21 markers.

The scoring was rather balanced as Newell received an 11-point contribution from sophomore Jim Johnson. Fred Farrell, playing his first season of organized basketball, tossed in eight markers and Kip Smith added six.

Newell showed a 12-9 lead at the end of the first quarter, but with Bell collecting eight points spurted in front 32-17 in the second quarter.

During the third period, Newell maintained a 20-point edge most of the way and wound up with a 53-30 bulge when the quarter ended. Bell tossed in nine points during that stanza.

A brief rally by Augusta brought the visitors within 12 points with four minutes remaining in the game but Newell shot out in front again after receiving a minor scare.

Wes Crawford fired in 20 big markers and teammate Sam DeVault scored 18 to lead the Ohio quint.

A brief fracas when tempers flared marked the fourth quarter as Bell was charged with a technical foul.

The Vikings play host to New Cumberland next Friday night.

Major Leagues' 2 All-Star Tilts To End In 1962

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The double All-Star game program, unwanted by the baseball club owners ever since its inception three years ago, will terminate with the 1962 season.

This was made evident Friday when the American League halfheartedly endorsed a second midsummer spectacular next year but warned in no uncertain tones that it would be the last.

"The American League voted to participate in the second All-Star game in 1962 but it will not entertain any request for a second All-Star game again. A committee will be appointed to consider an alternate program which will benefit the major league players and benefit baseball."

The National League acceptance of the request for two games by the players, was given in a much more cooperative vein.

City Cage League Opens Monday

The City Basketball League swings into its sixth consecutive season Monday night at Westgate gymnasium, replete with two new entries and a new "commissioner."

Six teams are entered in the 1961 league but the field does not include last year's champion — Freed's, or the East End Merchants.

The new entries are Professional Mercantile Collection Co., headed by veteran guard Ted Robinson, and Newell Central Service with John Kiger set to play a leading role.

Back for another year of action are teams sponsored by George Bright's, Bloor's Pharmacy, Wellsville Merchants and Alex's Carry-Out.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

3 Games Set At Westgate

League games will be played on Monday nights this year instead of Wednesdays as in the past. First game will get underway each Monday at 6:30.

The league "commissioner" is Glenn (Popeye) Barnett, a city sports enthusiast who has organized plans for this year. Barnett is also a veteran baseball umpire.

Barnett has asked for cooperation of the league players and managers who will be using Westgate gymnasium and the school's lockerrooms this season. Performers and fans are to vacate the school by 10 o'clock each Monday night, the loop chairman declared.

Admission will be free, but the league will accept donations at the door. Referees will be James (Jazzo) Migliore, Bill Schneidmiller, Wayne Rose and Jim Laughlin. Migliore and Schneidmiller will work the opening night games.

Opening the action will be George Bright's, with Al Dawson in the lineup, against Bloor's Pharmacy, led by Bob Gallagher.

The second game pits Newell Central Service against the Professional Mercantile Collection Co. The nightcap will find Wellsville Merchants going against Alex's.

Press Turns Tide Quickly For Leopards; Aloi Nets 19 Points

By ANDY NUZZO

Coach Hank Kuzma's Midland High School Leopards opened their 1961-62 cage season on a successful note by completely outclassing the Burgettstown High School Blue Devils, 68-30, Friday night before a fine crowd at Midland.

Midland threw a full court press at Burgettstown and rolled up 10 straight points before the Blue Devils could get off a shot.

Del Delamontague dropped in two charity tosses and then added a push shot from the side to cut Midland's lead to 10-4. This was the closest Burgettstown got to the Leopards all night.

Using the all-court press to a great advantage, Midland rolled to a 17-6 first quarter lead.

The second quarter was the big one for Midland as they outscored Burgettstown, 21-3.

Carl Yanek started the second stanza by hitting on a push shot for Burgettstown. Sam Forester then converted a three point play and Bill Sallis added a foul shot and Tom Boyd hit on a jump from the key to move Midland to a 23-8 lead.

Burgettstown guard Don Neil added a charity toss before the Leopards broke loose for their biggest surge of the night — 15 consecutive points.

Boyd started the surge when he drove for a lay-up. Forester and Sallis followed with tip-ins, and then Forester dropped in another lay-up and a three-point play to move the Leopards into a commanding 34-9 lead with 2:40 remaining in the half.

In the third quarter, Burgettstown could manage only five points — all foul shots — while the Leopards rolled up 16.

Forester opened the quarter with a jump from the key. Delamontague converted a foul try and then Aloi reeled off seven consecutive points to move the Leopards out in front, 47-10, with 4:26 left in the third stanza.

The Leopards added seven more while Burgettstown was converting four foul shots and the third quarter ended with Midland enjoying a comfortable 54-14 lead.

In the final stanza, the Blue Devils and the Leopards played on even terms. Burgettstown outscored Midland, 16-14, but the Leopards coasted home with a 68-30 victory.

Midland hit on 30 of 76 shots for 39 per cent compared to Burgettstown's 6 for 48 record for 13 per cent.

Leading the Leopard scorers was Aloi, who hit for 19 points, although he played only half of the game. He sat out the entire fourth quarter. Behind Aloi were Lake and Forester with 12 points each. Bill Sallis added 11 to the cause.

In rebounds, Midland was far out in front, 52-25. Sallis led all rebounders with 14. Gary Perkins managed nine and Forester pulled down eight.

The full-court press Midland used in the first half proved to be effective as it bottled up Burgettstown and forced them into many mistakes.

The Midland reserves made it a clean sweep by trouncing the Burgettstown reserves, 43-26. Henry Slappy led coach Ed Olkowski's JV squad with 11 points.

Next Tuesday night the Leopards will travel to Ambridge to meet a tough Bridger squad that has five returning lettermen in fold.

AFL To Open Draft Today

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The American Football League opened its draft today with Oakland getting the first choice because of its lowly status in the league standings.

Thirty rounds will have been held when Commissioner Joe Foss calls it quits about 5 p.m.

This draft is quite different from the one held in secret by the club owners a week ago, when such starts as Gary Collins of Maryland, Jim Saxton of Texas, Roman Gabriel of North Carolina State, Wendell Harris of Louisiana State, Ronnie Bull of Baylor, and Heisman Trophy winner Ernie Davis of Syracuse were selected.

But Foss declared that one null and void and all the players picked turned loose to be fought over in the official draft today. Foss got into an argument with Harry Wismer, owner of the New York Titans, over wiping out the secret draft and there were threats of the two trying to get rid of the other.

There were visions of a head-to-head meeting of the feudists at the draft here but Wismer isn't coming and neither are the other club owners. There will be no league meeting and no arguments about anything except whose going to get whom in the draft of college stars. That will be done by general managers, coaches and directors of player personnel.

Salineville Drops Opener To JU, 41-35

RICHMOND — Bill Humble and Allen Peach scored all but three of their team's points in Jefferson Union's 41-35 victory over Salineville Friday night on the JU floor.

Both cagers dropped in 19 points to outscore the whole Salineville squad.

The high point man on the floor though was Salineville's Jack Baker. The lone letterman for the Indians tossed in 22 of his team's total of 35.

M'Neeley Due $125,000 For Bout Monday

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

TORONTO (AP)—Don't cry for young Tom McNeeley.

The supposedly sacrificial lamb for heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson will collect something in the neighborhood of $125,000 as well as a chance to hit the jackpot in the title fight at Maple Leaf Gardens Monday night.

McNeeley's biggest purse was $9,000 for one of his three fights with George Logan, the most formidable of his 23 mediocre opponents in an unbeaten pro career of 3 1-3 years. His purse for the title fight, including the gate and theater-television, probably will be more than he has grossed in all of his bouts.

"Oh, those taxes," moaned Tom today.

Fuller said he almost had to scrape the bottom of the barrel to put up the $1 million guaranteeing Patterson a return fight within 120 days in case McNeeley gets lucky and dethrones the 10-1 favored champion.

Charley Goldman, who trained and schooled retired, undefeated heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, arrived to join the challenger's brain trust.

"Tom's got a couple of things going for him," said the tiny trainer. "He's rough and tough like Rocky and he goes right after a guy. If he gets in the first good punch on Patterson, strange things may happen."

OSU, Cincinnati Open Cage Cards

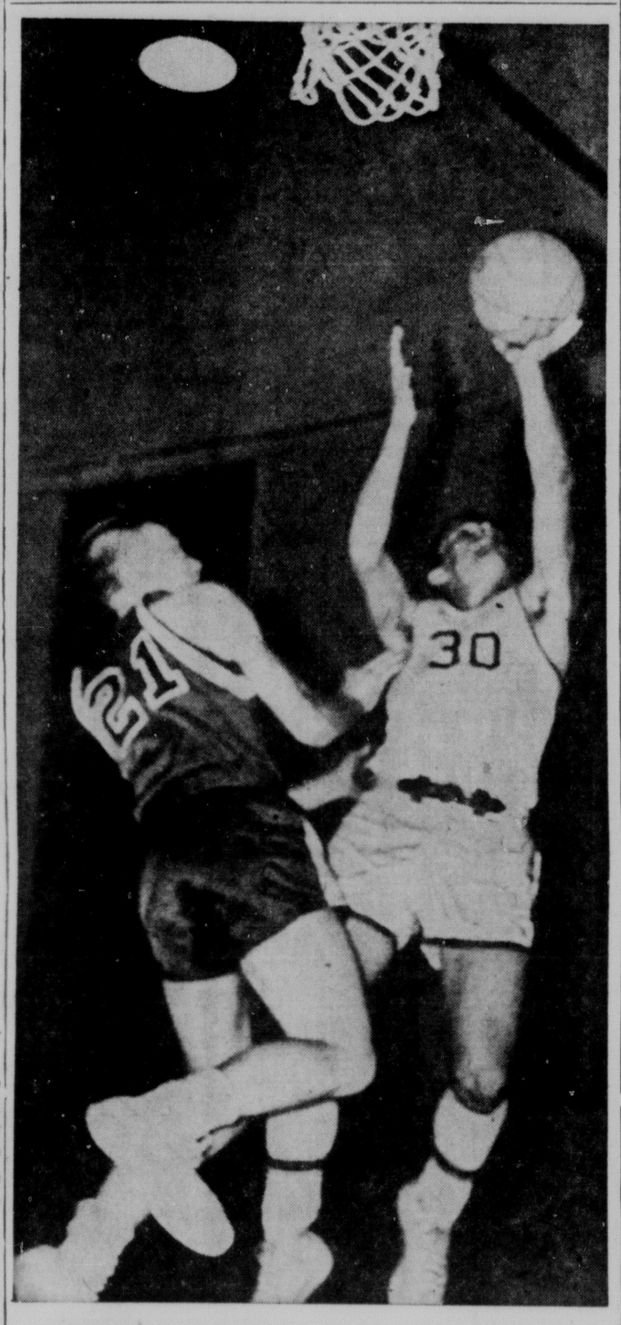

By The Associated Press

Ohio State and Cincinnati, nominated as likely repeaters as the nation's best, swing into action tonight at the top of the schedule for the first college basketball weekend of the season.

Ohio State, which had a 32-game winning string going until it ran into the balanced Bearcats and lost in overtime in the NCAA championship final last March, goes against Florida State.

The Buckeyes have been picked as the most likely to succeed in a preseason Associated Press poll of basketball experts.

Wilt Bags 60 Points In Warriors' Victory

By The Associated Press

It seems to be just a matter of time before Wilt Chamberlain erases the National Basketball Association record of 71 points in one game.

The 7-foot-1 star of the Philadelphia Warriors tossed in 60 points Friday night in leading the Warriors to a 138-117 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers. It was the second highest single total of his career. His single game high is 67.

In other NBA games Boston beat Chicago 140-121, New York defeated Syracuse 118-100 and St. Louis nipped Detroit 119-116.

Tigers Obtain Sam Jones To Bolster Staff

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Detroit has bolstered its fine pitching staff by adding the veteran Sam Jones from Houston in return for Bob Bruce and Manuel (Pete) Montejo, a pair of young right-handed pitchers.

"I expect to use Jones both as a starter and on relief," said Manager Bob Scheffing of the Tigers. "I was a coach with the Chicago Cubs when Jones pitched a no-hitter for them and I know all about him."

With Jones to back up Frank Lary, Jim Bunning, Don Mossi, Paul Foytack and Ron Kline either as a starter or in the bullpen, Scheffing appears well equipped to give the New York Yankees another stiff battle for the American League pennant.

The Tiger-Colt swap was the most important of three baseball deals completed Friday.

In a trade between Baltimore and the St. Louis Cardinals, two men who played on the same club at Rochester last summer traded uniforms. Johnny Kucks, 28, right-handed pitcher formerly with the New York Yankees and Kansas City, moved to St. Louis after a 10-13 season at Rochester. Shortstop Ron Kabbes, a .264 hitter at Rochester, moved from the Cardinal organization to the Orioles.

Cleveland acquired infielder Mel Roach for its Jacksonville farm of the International League in a swap that sent two young catchers, Ely Churchich and Lou Holdener to the Chicago Cubs' organization.

Newell Whips Augusta, 73-54; Midland Wins Easily

Bell, Staley Sparkle In Viking Win

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

Anchored by the scoring of lettermen Dave Bell and Mick Staley, Newell High's Vikings took an early lead and then went on to pick up a 73-54 victory over Augusta Friday night at the Wells High gym.

Coach John Robison started his 19th season on the right foot as the contest marked the 1961-62 opener for the Vikings.

The smaller Augusta squad brought a 1-1 record to Newell Friday night, but could not keep pace with the red hot Green and White cagers.

Augusta took more shots — 86 — but hit on only 22 for a 25 per cent mark.

Bell, a southpaw shooting junior, got off to a slow start, scoring only one field goal in the first quarter, but then peppered the nets for a game total of 24.

Staley, starting his fourth year as a regular, but slowed by a leg injury, scored consistently throughout the fray and wound up with 21 markers.

The scoring was rather balanced as Newell received an 11-point contribution from sophomore Jim Johnson. Fred Farrell, playing his first season of organized basketball, tossed in eight markers and Kip Smith added six.

Newell showed a 12-9 lead at the end of the first quarter, but with Bell collecting eight points spurted in front 32-17 in the second quarter.

During the third period, Newell maintained a 20-point edge most of the way and wound up with a 53-30 bulge when the quarter ended. Bell tossed in nine points during that stanza.

A brief rally by Augusta brought the visitors within 12 points with four minutes remaining in the game but Newell shot out in front again after receiving a minor scare.

Wes Crawford fired in 20 big markers and teammate Sam DeVault scored 18 to lead the Ohio quint.

A brief fracas when tempers flared marked the fourth quarter as Bell was charged with a technical foul.

The Vikings play host to New Cumberland next Friday night.

Major Leagues' 2 All-Star Tilts To End In 1962

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The double All-Star game program, unwanted by the baseball club owners ever since its inception three years ago, will terminate with the 1962 season.

This was made evident Friday when the American League halfheartedly endorsed a second midsummer spectacular next year but warned in no uncertain tones that it would be the last.

"The American League voted to participate in the second All-Star game in 1962 but it will not entertain any request for a second All-Star game again. A committee will be appointed to consider an alternate program which will benefit the major league players and benefit baseball."

The National League acceptance of the request for two games by the players, was given in a much more cooperative vein.

City Cage League Opens Monday

The City Basketball League swings into its sixth consecutive season Monday night at Westgate gymnasium, replete with two new entries and a new "commissioner."

Six teams are entered in the 1961 league but the field does not include last year's champion — Freed's, or the East End Merchants.

The new entries are Professional Mercantile Collection Co., headed by veteran guard Ted Robinson, and Newell Central Service with John Kiger set to play a leading role.

Back for another year of action are teams sponsored by George Bright's, Bloor's Pharmacy, Wellsville Merchants and Alex's Carry-Out.

3 Games Set At Westgate

League games will be played on Monday nights this year instead of Wednesdays as in the past. First game will get underway each Monday at 6:30.

The league "commissioner" is Glenn (Popeye) Barnett, a city sports enthusiast who has organized plans for this year. Barnett is also a veteran baseball umpire.

Barnett has asked for cooperation of the league players and managers who will be using Westgate gymnasium and the school's lockerrooms this season. Performers and fans are to vacate the school by 10 o'clock each Monday night, the loop chairman declared.

Admission will be free, but the league will accept donations at the door. Referees will be James (Jazzo) Migliore, Bill Schneidmiller, Wayne Rose and Jim Laughlin. Migliore and Schneidmiller will work the opening night games.

Opening the action will be George Bright's, with Al Dawson in the lineup, against Bloor's Pharmacy, led by Bob Gallagher.

Press Turns Tide Quickly For Leopards; Aloi Nets 19 Points

By ANDY NUZZO

Coach Hank Kuzma's Midland High School Leopards opened their 1961-62 cage season on a successful note by completely outclassing the Burgettstown High School Blue Devils, 68-30, Friday night before a fine crowd at Midland.

Midland threw a full court press at Burgettstown and rolled up 10 straight points before the Blue Devils could get off a shot.

Del Delamontague dropped in two charity tosses and then added a push shot from the side to cut Midland's lead to 10-4. This was the closest Burgettstown got to the Leopards all night.

Using the all-court press to a great advantage, Midland rolled to a 17-6 first quarter lead.

The second quarter was the big one for Midland as they outscored Burgettstown, 21-3.

Carl Yanek started the second stanza by hitting on a push shot for Burgettstown. Sam Forester then converted a three point play and Bill Sallis added a foul shot and Tom Boyd hit on a jump from the key to move Midland to a 23-8 lead.

Burgettstown guard Don Neil added a charity toss before the Leopards broke loose for their biggest surge of the night — 15 consecutive points.

Boyd started the surge when he drove for a lay-up. Forester and Sallis followed with tip - ins, and then Forester dropped in another lay-up and a three - point play to move the Leopards into a commanding 34-9 lead with 2:40 remaining in the half.

Al Aloi added two jumpers and the half ended with Midland ahead, 38-9.

In the third quarter, Burgettstown could manage only five points — all foul shots — while the Leopards rolled up 16.

Forester opened the quarter with a jump from the key. Delamontague converted a foul try and then Aloi reeled off seven consecutive points to move the Leopards out in front, 47-10, with 4:26 left in the third stanza.

The Leopards added seven more while Burgettstown was converting four foul shots and the third quarter ended with Midland enjoying a comfortable 54-14 lead.

In the final stanza, the Blue Devils and the Leopards played on even terms. Burgettstown outscored Midland, 16-14, but the Leopards coasted home with a 68-30 victory.

Midland hit on 30 of 76 shots for 39 per cent compared to Burgettstown's 6 for 48 record for 13 per cent.

Leading the Leopard scorers was Aloi, who hit for 19 points, although he played only half of the game. He sat out the entire fourth quarter. Behind Aloi were Lake and Forester with 12 points each. Bill Sallis added 11 to the cause.

In rebounds, Midland was far out in front, 52-25. Sallis led all rebounders with 14. Gary Perkins managed nine and Forester pulled down eight.

The full-court press Midland used in the first half proved to be effective as it bottled up Burgettstown and forced them into many mistakes.

The Midland reserves made it a clean sweep by trouncing the Burgettstown reserves, 43-26. Henry Slappy led coach Ed Olkowski's JV squad with 11 points.

Next Tuesday night the Leopards will travel to Ambridge to meet a tough Bridger squad that has five returning lettermen in fold.

AFL To Open Draft Today

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The American Football League opened its draft today with Oakland getting the first choice because of its lowly status in the league standings.

Thirty rounds will have been held when Commissioner Joe Foss calls it quits about 5 p.m.

This draft is quite different from the one held in secret by the club owners a week ago, when such starts as Gary Collins of Maryland, Jim Saxton of Texas, Roman Gabriel of North Carolina State, Wendell Harris of Louisiana State, Ronnie Bull of Baylor, and Heisman Trophy winner Ernie Davis of Syracuse were selected.

But Foss declared that one null and void and all the players picked turned loose to be fought over in the official draft today. Foss got into an argument with Harry Wismer, owner of the New York Titans, over wiping out the secret draft and there were threats of the two trying to get rid of the other.

There were visions of a head-to-head meeting of the feudists at the draft here but Wismer isn't coming and neither are the other club owners. There will be no league meeting and no arguments about anything except whose going to get whom in the draft of college stars. That will be done by general managers, coaches and directors of player personnel.

Salineville Drops Opener To JU, 41-35

RICHMOND — Bill Humble and Allen Peach scored all but three of their team's points in Jefferson Union's 41-35 victory over Salineville Friday night on the JU floor.

Both cagers dropped in 19 points to outscore the whole Salineville squad.

The high point man on the floor though was Salineville's Jack Baker. The lone letterman for the Indians tossed in 22 of his team's total of 35.

M'Neeley Due $125,000 For Bout Monday

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

TORONTO (AP)—Don't cry for young Tom McNeeley.

The supposedly sacrificial lamb for heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson will collect something in the neighborhood of $125,000 as well as a chance to hit the jackpot in the title fight at Maple Leaf Gardens Monday night.

McNeeley's biggest purse was $9,000 for one of his three fights with George Logan, the most formidable of his 23 mediocre opponents in an unbeaten pro career of 3 1-3 years. His purse for the title fight, including the gate and theater-television, probably will be more than he has grossed in all of his bouts.

"Oh, those taxes," moaned Tom today.

Fuller said he almost had to scrape the bottom of the barrel to put up the $1 million guaranteeing Patterson a return fight within 120 days in case McNeeley gets lucky and dethrones the 10-1 favored champion.

Charley Goldman, who trained and schooled retired, undefeated heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, arrived to join the challenger's brain trust.

"Tom's got a couple of things going for him," said the tiny trainer. "He's rough and tough like Rocky and he goes right after a guy. If he gets in the first good punch on Patterson, strange things may happen."

OSU, Cincinnati Open Cage Cards

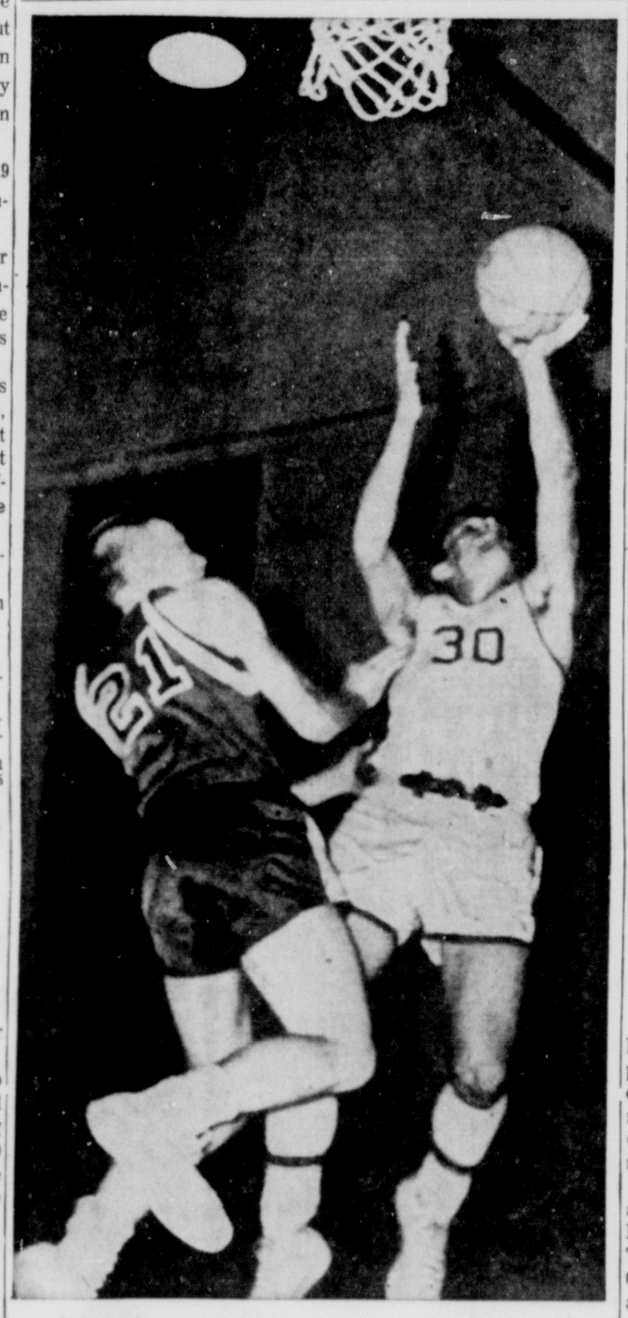

By The Associated Press

Ohio State and Cincinnati, nominated as likely repeaters as the nation's best, swing into action tonight at the top of the schedule for the first college basketball weekend of the season.

Ohio State, which had a 32-game winning string going until it ran into the balanced Bearcats and lost in overtime in the NCAA championship final last March, goes against Florida State.

The Buckeyes have been picked as the most likely to succeed in a preseason Associated Press poll of basketball experts.

NEWELL'S DAVE BELL (30) is shown being shoved as he was going up for a shot, by Augusta's Wes Crawford and the two cagers had an exchange of words after the play as tempers flared briefly in the fourth quarter of Friday night's Newell-Augusta game at the Wells High gym. Wilt Bags 60 Points In Warriors' Victory

By The Associated Press

It seems to be just a matter of time before Wilt Chamberlain erases the National Basketball Association record of 71 points in one game.

The 7-foot-1 star of the Philadelphia Warriors tossed in 60 points Friday night in leading the Warriors to a 138-117 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers. It was the second highest single total of his career. His single game high is 67.

Tigers Obtain Sam Jones To Bolster Staff

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Detroit has bolstered its fine pitching staff by adding the veteran Sam Jones from Houston in return for Bob Bruce and Manuel (Pete) Montejo, a pair of young right-handed pitchers.

"I expect to use Jones both as a starter and on relief," said Manager Bob Scheffing of the Tigers. "I was a coach with the Chicago Cubs when Jones pitched a no-hitter for them and I know all about him."

With Jones to back up Frank Lary, Jim Bunning, Don Mossi, Paul Foytack and Ron Kline either as a starter or in the bullpen, Scheffing appears well equipped to give the New York Yankees another stiff battle for the American League pennant.

The Tiger-Colt swap was the most important of three baseball deals completed Friday.

In a trade between Baltimore and the St. Louis Cardinals, two men who played on the same club at Rochester last summer traded uniforms. Johnny Kucks, 28, right-handed pitcher formerly with the New York Yankees and Kansas City, moved to St. Louis after a 10-13 season at Rochester. Shortstop Ron Kabbes, a .264 hitter at Rochester, moved from the Cardinal organization to the Orioles.

Cleveland acquired infielder Mel Roach for its Jacksonville farm of the International League in a swap that sent two young catchers, Ely Churchich and Lou Holdener to the Chicago Cubs' organization.

President Among 100,000 To See Army-Navy Battle

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

The 62nd nationally televised service clash—ABC-TV, 1:30 p.m. (EST)—expected a sellout crowd of nearly 100,000 including President John F. Kennedy.

Pregame pressure on Army was tremendous. The Cadets had won only once in the previous five years and had lost two in a row. So electric was the atmosphere at West Point that Coach Dale Hall had to move the Army team to the Philadelphia area long before planned.

In a slightly more quiet if no less dedicated atmosphere at Annapolis, Navy Coach Wayne Hardin boldly answered West Point yells of "Sink the Navy" with a "Psych the Army" campaign.

Hardin said Army had the better personnel man for man while praising the hustle of his own players. He publicly thanked Hall for a "We'll beat Navy" statement which produced added ammunition in the Middie camp.

More than that, Hardin had some last minute revelations. Navy believes it knows what play Army will use the first time it has the ball.

Hardin also said he expected Army to come out with some variation of the shotgun offense, making liberal use of George Kirschenbauer who has been injured most of the season.

Hardin also sent Navy hopes soaring when he said hobbled captain John Hewitt, out since the Duke game with a twisted knee, might play more than previouusly expected.

The teams, claiming identical 6-3 records, were rated even.

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—The New York Giants and the Green Bay Packers put 9-2 records on the line in a National Football League showdown of East-West leaders Sunday at County Stadium.

A standing room only crowd of some 47,000 is expected for what many consider a preview of the NFL championship clash. As a side feature, the game brings together two coaches who moved up from the same job.

The coaches: Vince Lombardi of the Packers and Allie Sherman of the Giants. Both are former offensive mentors with New York. Lombardi moved to take over the helm at Green Bay in 1959 and was succeeded in New York by Sherman. After the 1960 campaign, Lombardi rejected an offer to return to the Giants as head coach and Sherman was promoted to the top spot.

The Giants, facing a "must" win situation, will be seeking their fifth straight triumph. After surging to 53-0, 38-21, 42-21 and 37-21 triumphs in the last month, New York holds a slim one-game lead over Philadelphia's defending NFL champions in the Eastern Division. And the Eagles anxiously are awaiting a meeting at home with the Giants Dec. 10.

Ohio Football Coaches Plan Grid Classic

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's high school football coaches will sponsor a grid game——all-star or otherwise—at their annual week-long clinic at Canton next August.

'If the NCAA doesn't retreat from its present stand against high scool all-star games and the state association declines to approve the north - south game, we'll go ahead on some basis.

"We'll have a professional game, or a high school contest in which the players are planning to attend NAIA Colleges."

The NCAA, which meets in January in Chicago, ruled early this year that players participating in all-star games not sanctioned by state athletic associations would lose a year of collegiate eligibility.

The Ohio association approved the 1961 contest at Canton, but said it would sanction no more since it "lacks jurisdiction over players once they have graduated."

Robinson outlined a plan under which each of the coaching association's 16 directors would select 10 players, 80 from the north and 80 from the south, from which the 25-man squads would be named.

We'll use only those who plan to attend NAIA colleges, which doesn't have a ban on post-season games, or those who don't mind losing a year of eligibility in an NCAA school," Robinson said.

"I hope the NCAA revises its stand, but if it doesn't we'll go ahead anyway."

Directors of the coaching group gave him a "go ahead" vote, but urged him to hold off all plans until after the NCAA meeting at which representatives of both the Buckeye football and basketball coaches' associations will state their views.

"If it is impossible to hold a high school game, we'll bring in two professional teams to wind up the clinic sessions," Robinson said.

The coaches also voted against adopting the national high school federation rules, deciding to stick with the NCAA regulations under which the state has operated for years. Forty-three states are in the federation.

They also approved a new rule under which a player getting into the game as a substitute before the ball is snapped shall not incur a delay-of-game penalty. Under present rules a player cannot enter after the referee has spotted the ball and turned away from it.

Freshwater Paces Raiders

South Side Nipped, 41-39, By New Cumberland Five

NEW CUMBERLAND — Kenny Freshwater, 6-foot-1 junior, led a second half spurt to bring New Cumberland from behind for a 41-39 victory over South Side here Friday night.

The two squads were tied at 27-27 when the third period ended. The last tie came at 31-31. New Cumberland shot into a 39-33 lead then hung on for the victory.

President Among 100,000 To See Army-Navy Battle

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

The 62nd nationally televised service clash—ABC-TV, 1:30 p.m. (EST)—expected a sellout crowd of nearly 100,000 including President John F. Kennedy.

Pregame pressure on Army was tremendous. The Cadets had won only once in the previous five years and had lost two in a row. So electric was the atmosphere at West Point that Coach Dale Hall had to move the Army team to the Philadelphia area long before planned.

Hardin said Army had the better personnel man for man while praising the hustle of his own players. He publicly thanked Hall for a "We'll beat Navy" statement which produced added ammunition in the Middie camp.

More than that, Hardin had some last minute revelations. Navy believes it knows what play Army will use the first time it has the ball.

Hardin also said he expected Army to come out with some variation of the shotgun offense, making liberal use of George Kirschenbauer who has been injured most of the season.

Hardin also sent Navy hopes soaring when he said hobbled captain John Hewitt, out since the Duke game with a twisted knee, might play more than previouusly expected.

The teams, claiming identical 6-3 records, were rated even.

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—The New York Giants and the Green Bay Packers put 9-2 records on the line in a National Football League showdown of East-West leaders Sunday at County Stadium.

A standing room only crowd of some 47,000 is expected for what many consider a preview of the NFL championship clash. As a side feature, the game brings together two coaches who moved up from the same job.

The coaches: Vince Lombardi of the Packers and Allie Sherman of the Giants. Both are former offensive mentors with New York. Lombardi moved to take over the helm at Green Bay in 1959 and was succeeded in New York by Sherman. After the 1960 campaign, Lombardi rejected an offer to return to the Giants as head coach and Sherman was promoted to the top spot.

The Giants, facing a "must" win situation, will be seeking their fifth straight triumph. After surging to 53-0, 38-21, 42-21 and 37-21 triumphs in the last month, New York holds a slim one-game lead over Philadelphia's defending NFL champions in the Eastern Division. And the Eagles anxiously are awaiting a meeting at home with the Giants Dec. 10.

Ohio Football Coaches Plan Grid Classic

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's high school football coaches will sponsor a grid game——all-star or otherwise—at their annual week-long clinic at Canton next August.

'If the NCAA doesn't retreat from its present stand against high scool all-star games and the state association declines to approve the north - south game, we'll go ahead on some basis.

"We'll have a professional game, or a high school contest in which the players are planning to attend NAIA Colleges."

The NCAA, which meets in January in Chicago, ruled early this year that players participating in all-star games not sanctioned by state athletic associations would lose a year of collegiate eligibility.

The Ohio association approved the 1961 contest at Canton, but said it would sanction no more since it "lacks jurisdiction over players once they have graduated."

Robinson outlined a plan under which each of the coaching association's 16 directors would select 10 players, 80 from the north and 80 from the south, from which the 25-man squads would be named.

We'll use only those who plan to attend NAIA colleges, which doesn't have a ban on post-season games, or those who don't mind losing a year of eligibility in an NCAA school," Robinson said.

"I hope the NCAA revises its stand, but if it doesn't we'll go ahead anyway."

Directors of the coaching group gave him a "go ahead" vote, but urged him to hold off all plans until after the NCAA meeting at which representatives of both the Buckeye football and basketball coaches' associations will state their views.

"If it is impossible to hold a high school game, we'll bring in two professional teams to wind up the clinic sessions," Robinson said.

The coaches also voted against adopting the national high school federation rules, deciding to stick with the NCAA regulations under which the state has operated for years. Forty-three states are in the federation.

They also approved a new rule under which a player getting into the game as a substitute before the ball is snapped shall not incur a delay-of-game penalty. Under present rules a player cannot enter after the referee has spotted the ball and turned away from it.

Freshwater Paces Raiders

NEW CUMBERLAND — Kenny Freshwater, 6-foot-1 junior, led a second half spurt to bring New Cumberland from behind for a 41-39 victory over South Side here Friday night.

It was a heartbreaker for Coach Dave Nichol's all-veteran squad to lose. South Side owned a 14-12 lead at the first quarter mark then drove to a 24-17 margin at halftime.

The two squads were tied at 27-27 when the third period ended. The last tie came at 31-31. New Cumberland shot into a 39-33 lead then hung on for the victory.

Freshwater held to only four points in the first half, dropped in 13 markers in the second half to spark a Raider comeback.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I clean windows during cold weather without using water?

A. There are any number of commercial products on the market for window cleaning. You can also use a cloth dampened in wood alcohol, then polishing with a clean, dry cloth.

Q. What is the proper way to cut off excess carpeting?

A. Turn the carpet upside down, and use a very sharp knife to sever the cords. As a guide for making a straight cut, keep the blade between two parallel filler or warp strands.

Q. How can I remove the printing from flour sacks?

A. Boil the sacks in a mixture of a tablespoonful of kerosene and two quarts of soapsuds. This treatment will not only take out the lettering, but will bleach the bags.

Q. How can I mend broken chinaware?

A. Use a cement made by mixing plaster-of-paris with the white of an egg until it is creamy. Apply this as you would any prepared cement.

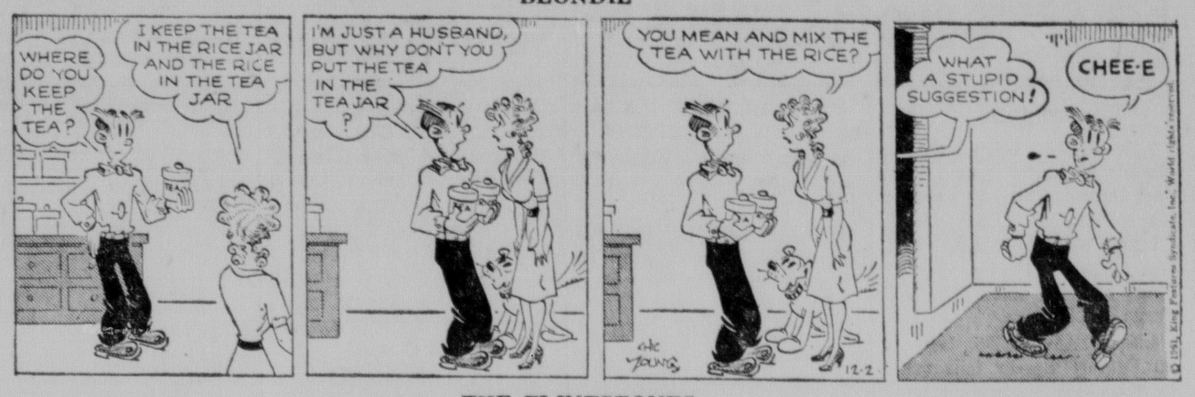

Q. How can I make easier the job of sealing a great number of envelopes for mailing, and with less wear on my tongue?

A. You can improvise a good sealer. Merely moisten the flaps of your envelopes with an ice cube wrapped in a clean cloth. The ice keeps melting fast enough to keep the cloth damp while you're using it.

Q. How can I prevent eggs from bursting while boiling them?

A. They'll not burst if one end of each egg is stuck with a needle before placing it in the water. This makes an outlet for air and prevents the eggs from cracking.

The children's activities course is required for a cadet elementary certificate and for a degree in elementary education The psychology course is required in all programs, and is a prerequisite for admission to all education-titled courses.

Jet Pilot Steers Flaming Craft In Niagara Gorge

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP) —"The situation called for an ejection, but I just couldn't justify it with myself. I had no idea where the craft would fall, so I stayed with it."

And so Lt. Edward M. Methot, his F100 Super Saber Jet aflame, steered the craft away from this heavily populated area and into the wall of the 150-foot-deep Niagara River Gorge Friday. Methot ejected himself from the plane seconds before it crashed and exploded. He came away virtually unharmed.

Just before thundering into the gorge, the plane passed between the framework of the new International Bridge and a vertical frame that is to support the roadway.

Lisbon Council Buys Truck And Spreader

LISBON — Council purchased a 1948 Ford truck and a new hydraulic ash spreader from the Howard Adams Machinery Co. of Salineville at a special meeting Thursday. The total cost is $1,450.

The present village truck is a 1950 model but is in poor condition. The 1948 truck has been used only as a demonstrator, Council said.

The spreader now in use requires an extra man, which the new model doesn't, and it can be transferred quickly from one truck to another.

Council now feels the village is ready for the winter as the old truck was laid up for repairs most of the time since it is in such poor condition.

Ex-City Man Suffers Burns At Columbiana

Jess Terrence, 61, of 522 W. Park Ave., Columbiana, remains in "fair" condition today at Salem City Hospital with burns suffered in a gasoline fire at his home Tuesday.

Terrence, former city fireman who left here about 15 years ago, slipped and fell in the garage at home, upsetting a can of gasoline which ignited when it struck the motor of his car on which he was working.

Man Bound Over For Bank Robbery

CLEVELAND (AP) — Louis G. Zak, 26, of Newbury, one of two men charged with robbing the West Branch of the Portage National Bank at Kent Nov. 10, was bound over to the federal grand jury Friday after waiving a preliminary hearing before U. S. Commissioner Herbert A. Horn. Bond was set at $15,000.

The FBI said George Edward Boardley, 21, of Burton Lakes, is being sought on bank robbery and fugitive warrants in connection with the holdup in which two men escaped with $24,210. A few hours after he was arrested, Zak took FBI agents to a gravel pit near South Newbury Thursday night and showed them where $12,000 was hidden under a work-shed.

Dean Says Soviet Not Interested In Easing Tensions

Dean spoke with newsmen Friday after alighting from a jet airliner that made two passes over Idlewild Airport for a landing gear check before setting down without incident.

Gasoline Prices Cut In New Competition

Some area gasoline firms have peeled a penny from the price of their regular gasolines to meet new competition from a 26.9-cent grade of Gulf gasoline introduced in this district this week.

Pennzoil and Standard Oil Co. stations have trimmed their regular grades to 27.9 cents, and a number of other gasoline dealers are considering a price reduction.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Bright Child Can Lag In School Work

There's a notion abroad, shared by many teachers, principals and parents, that no one should be concerned if a child, who rates high on an intelligence test or shows other signs of native mental ability, is not doing well in school. "Just don't worry," the parent may be told. "Wait and he will wake up and surprise you with his school progress." Accepting this doctrine or advice, many parents wait in vain. A good many parents are writing me about such a child, now in the upper grades, even in high school, who still lags behind or fails to make the grade.

NO MATTER HOW bright your child seems to be, if, by the second or third grade, he is making little or no progress in basic subjects like reading, spelling and arithmetic, don't be satisfied until you are sure the school or yourself has found ways to help him enjoy learning success.

Since all his future school work will depend on his ability to read well, look into this matter first. If this child is in the fourth, fifth or a higher grade, and is lagging at school, though he may be a fair reader, take note of how well he spells and does simple number work.

If he is a miserable speller he will be seriously handicapped in all written work at school.

IF HE STILL counts as he adds or subtracts, and misspells common words repeatedly in his written work, you will know he lacks habits of precision in such mechanical matters. You will know he has never learned good habits of rote learning and the necessary discipline to completely master the spelling of words or the basic number combinations.

One thing any parent can do is to require the child to keep studying, over and over again, the spelling of a word assigned to be learned until it is mastered. Help him to learn by rote the basic number combinations, and other mechanical items he will always need to know by heart.

At home, this child should be required to conform to some desirable family routines by doing some regular chores promptly and well.

My bulletin, "Home Helps in Reading, Arithmetic and Spelling," may be had by sending a self - addressed stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Jet Pilot Steers Flaming Craft In Niagara Gorge

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP) —"The situation called for an ejection, but I just couldn't justify it with myself. I had no idea where the craft would fall, so I stayed with it."

And so Lt. Edward M. Methot, his F100 Super Saber Jet aflame, steered the craft away from this heavily populated area and into the wall of the 150-foot-deep Niagara River Gorge Friday. Methot ejected himself from the plane seconds before it crashed and exploded. He came away virtually unharmed.

Just before thundering into the gorge, the plane passed between the framework of the new International Bridge and a vertical frame that is to support the roadway.

It narrowly missed 15 workmen standing on the framework.

Lisbon Council Buys Truck And Spreader

LISBON — Council purchased a 1948 Ford truck and a new hydraulic ash spreader from the Howard Adams Machinery Co. of Salineville at a special meeting Thursday. The total cost is $1,450.

The present village truck is a 1950 model but is in poor condition. The 1948 truck has been used only as a demonstrator, Council said.

The spreader now in use requires an extra man, which the new model doesn't, and it can be transferred quickly from one truck to another.

Council now feels the village is ready for the winter as the old truck was laid up for repairs most of the time since it is in such poor condition.

Man Bound Over For Bank Robbery

CLEVELAND (AP) — Louis G. Zak, 26, of Newbury, one of two men charged with robbing the West Branch of the Portage National Bank at Kent Nov. 10, was bound over to the federal grand jury Friday after waiving a preliminary hearing before U. S. Commissioner Herbert A. Horn. Bond was set at $15,000.

The FBI said George Edward Boardley, 21, of Burton Lakes, is being sought on bank robbery and fugitive warrants in connection with the holdup in which two men escaped with $24,210. A few hours after he was arrested, Zak took FBI agents to a gravel pit near South Newbury Thursday night and showed them where $12,000 was hidden under a work-shed.

Dean Says Soviet Not Interested In Easing Tensions

Dean spoke with newsmen Friday after alighting from a jet airliner that made two passes over Idlewild Airport for a landing gear check before setting down without incident.

Dean, asked whether tension at the test-ban talks had been eased by the appearance in the Soviet press of an interview with President Kennedy, replied: "There is no such thing as easing tensions with these people—they want world communism."

Dean added, however, "in this game you have to be optimistic."

Gasoline Prices Cut In New Competition

Some area gasoline firms have peeled a penny from the price of their regular gasolines to meet new competition from a 26.9-cent grade of Gulf gasoline introduced in this district this week.

Pennzoil and Standard Oil Co. stations have trimmed their regular grades to 27.9 cents, and a number of other gasoline dealers are considering a price reduction.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Bright Child Can Lag In School Work

There's a notion abroad, shared by many teachers, principals and parents, that no one should be concerned if a child, who rates high on an intelligence test or shows other signs of native mental ability, is not doing well in school. "Just don't worry," the parent may be told. "Wait and he will wake up and surprise you with his school progress." Accepting this doctrine or advice, many parents wait in vain. A good many parents are writing me about such a child, now in the upper grades, even in high school, who still lags behind or fails to make the grade.

NO MATTER HOW bright your child seems to be, if, by the second or third grade, he is making little or no progress in basic subjects like reading, spelling and arithmetic, don't be satisfied until you are sure the school or yourself has found ways to help him enjoy learning success.

Since all his future school work will depend on his ability to read well, look into this matter first. If this child is in the fourth, fifth or a higher grade, and is lagging at school, though he may be a fair reader, take note of how well he spells and does simple number work.

If he is a miserable speller he will be seriously handicapped in all written work at school.

IF HE STILL counts as he adds or subtracts, and misspells common words repeatedly in his written work, you will know he lacks habits of precision in such mechanical matters. You will know he has never learned good habits of rote learning and the necessary discipline to completely master the spelling of words or the basic number combinations.

One thing any parent can do is to require the child to keep studying, over and over again, the spelling of a word assigned to be learned until it is mastered. Help him to learn by rote the basic number combinations, and other mechanical items he will always need to know by heart.

At home, this child should be required to conform to some desirable family routines by doing some regular chores promptly and well.

My bulletin, "Home Helps in Reading, Arithmetic and Spelling," may be had by sending a self - addressed stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Pearl Harbor Spurred Our Finest Moment!

Can America face today's world crisis? Yes, says this noted Senator, who recalls a fateful Sunday and the challenge we met head on

By SEN. HARRY F. BYRD as told to John M. Ross

Senator Harry F. Byrd

THE POETS tell us that man's memory is short. But is it possible that America has already forgotten Pearl Harbor and the glorious chapter of history that was written in its wake?

The question taunts me constantly as I encounter more and more of my fellow countrymen wringing their hands in fear each time Mr. Khrushchev thumps the lectern with his shoe. These are days of severe world crisis, true. But consider that tragic Sunday of Dec. 7, 1941, when America's hour of peril—and humiliation—was never greater.

That the Japanese sneak attack had sunk a large segment of our Pacific Fleet and had left 2,403 Americans dead was by no means the sum total of the disaster. We had underestimated the enemy—his destructiveness and his daring—and we had squandered time. While Japan and Germany were amassing their military strength, America clung hopefully to a role of neutrality.

Yes, we burdened ourselves with a terrible handicap. And, yet, when the fateful hour finally came I had not the slightest doubt that we could meet the awesome challenge. I remember the moment well. I was having lunch at my home in Berryville, Va., when the radio flash shattered the Sunday serenity of our Shenandoah Valley. For an instant, I sat stunned. In the next, I vowed that America would answer back—a hundredfold. Millions of Americans must have pledged that same oath almost simultaneously.

Centuries from now, historians undoubtedly will be amazed when they behold our fantastic accomplishments in the days that followed Pearl Harbor. Our Army in 1941 numbered only 1½ million. The Axis boasted of strength in excess of 20 million. We had 350 warships, or about 100 less than Japan. In the Atlantic, the immense German U-boat fleet destroyed cargo ships faster than we could build them. On top of all this, the Nazis were overrunning Russia, and Britain was reeling under the relentless Luftwaffe "blitz." And in pledging to assist our allies while we armed ourselves for war, we took on obligations unmatched in magnitude in the whole history of man.

It was not merely the gallantry of our men in battle that turned the tide. Of equal importance was the phenomenal transition of our great industry and the unstinting sacrifice of the American on the home front. More than half our 131 million population joined the war effort, either at work or in the service. More than 5 million women responded to the call for labor. Boys left school. Older citizens came out of retirement. Almost overnight, we surpassed the vaunted production feats of the Krupp works in Germany and Skoda in occupied Czechoslovakia, even though they were years ahead of us in planning and maintained their labor force under the iron hand of a dictator.

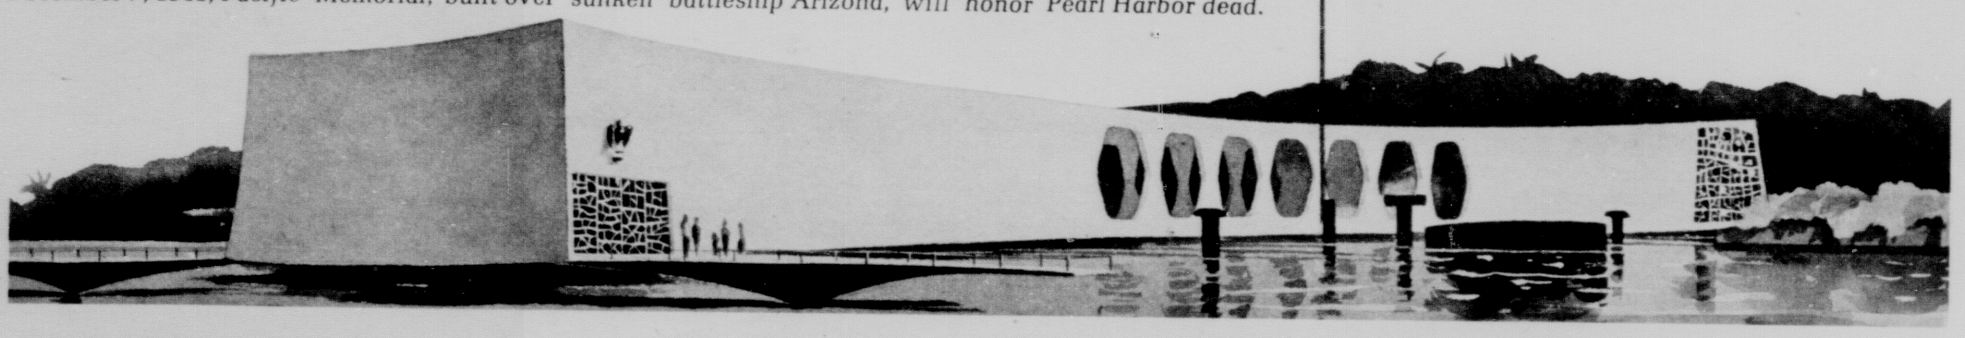

AT THE START of the war, the goal of turning out 500 heavy bombers a month seemed a pipe dream. And yet by 1944 our aircraft production became so spectacular that we were able to make no less than 1,500 four-engine planes per month. In all, we produced more than 300,000 planes of all types during the war at a cost of $44 billion. Our ship production grew from a trickling 1,155,000 tons in 1941 to a peak of 24 million tons in 1943. At the time of Pearl Harbor, our tanks numbered 464—all outmoded. By V-J Day, our automobile industry had built 90,000 newly designed tanks; 105,000 military vehicles, and 16,000 self-propelled guns.

Defense workers served long hours and stood in line to buy their necessities at undermanned and understocked stores. Housewives salvaged fats, tin cans, silk, and paper to ease national shortages. Americans grew "victory gardens" and produced more than 42 percent of the fresh vegetables consumed in the home. They also gave their blood at an average of 100,000 pints per week. They gave up necessities and packed food parcels for prisoners of war, civilian internees, and our own boys in the service. And they bought War Bonds—more than $35,300,000,000 in individual purchases.

FREEDOM does not come cheap. The cost of our great victories at Anzio, St. Lo, Leyte, and elsewhere—in lives, suffering, and dollars—is a burden that we will bear for some time to come. But we can gain comfort and pride from the fact that our democracy—often branded by our detractors as soft and decadent—was equal to the greatest challenge ever hurled at any one nation.

Pearl Harbor spurred our finest hour! It would be well for all Americans who walk freely but fearfully to remember Pearl Harbor this week, when we commemorate its 20th anniversary. Remember that we possess our freedom only because we have had the will and the strength to stand up to the test whenever it has presented itself in our history. Remember that while passionately embracing peace, we cannot shrink from the task of keeping the torch of liberty burning bright for all who seek and cherish freedom.

December 7, 1941, Pacific Memorial, built over sunken battleship Arizona, will honor Pearl Harbor dead.

Pearl Harbor Spurred Our Finest Moment!

Can America face today's world crisis? Yes, says this noted Senator, who recalls a fateful Sunday and the challenge we met head on

By SEN. HARRY F. BYRD as told to John M. Ross

Senator Harry F. Byrd

THE POETS tell us that man's memory is short. But is it possible that America has already forgotten Pearl Harbor and the glorious chapter of history that was written in its wake?

The question taunts me constantly as I encounter more and more of my fellow countrymen wringing their hands in fear each time Mr. Khrushchev thumps the lectern with his shoe. These are days of severe world crisis, true. But consider that tragic Sunday of Dec. 7, 1941, when America's hour of peril—and humiliation—was never greater.

That the Japanese sneak attack had sunk a large segment of our Pacific Fleet and had left 2,403 Americans dead was by no means the sum total of the disaster. We had underestimated the enemy—his destructiveness and his daring—and we had squandered time. While Japan and Germany were amassing their military strength, America clung hopefully to a role of neutrality.

Yes, we burdened ourselves with a terrible handicap. And, yet, when the fateful hour finally came I had not the slightest doubt that we could meet the awesome challenge. I remember the moment well. I was having lunch at my home in Berryville, Va., when the radio flash shattered the Sunday serenity of our Shenandoah Valley. For an instant, I sat stunned. In the next, I vowed that America would answer back—a hundredfold. Millions of Americans must have pledged that same oath almost simultaneously.

Centuries from now, historians undoubtedly will be amazed when they behold our fantastic accomplishments in the days that followed Pearl Harbor. Our Army in 1941 numbered only 1½ million. The Axis boasted of strength in excess of 20 million. We had 350 warships, or about 100 less than Japan. In the Atlantic, the immense German U-boat fleet destroyed cargo ships faster than we could build them. On top of all this, the Nazis were overrunning Russia, and Britain was reeling under the relentless Luftwaffe "blitz." And in pledging to assist our allies while we armed ourselves for war, we took on obligations unmatched in magnitude in the whole history of man.

It was not merely the gallantry of our men in battle that turned the tide. Of equal importance was the phenomenal transition of our great industry and the unstinting sacrifice of the American on the home front. More than half our 131 million population joined the war effort, either at work or in the service. More than 5 million women responded to the call for labor. Boys left school. Older citizens came out of retirement. Almost overnight, we surpassed the vaunted production feats of the Krupp works in Germany and Skoda in occupied Czechoslovakia, even though they were years ahead of us in planning and maintained their labor force under the iron hand of a dictator.

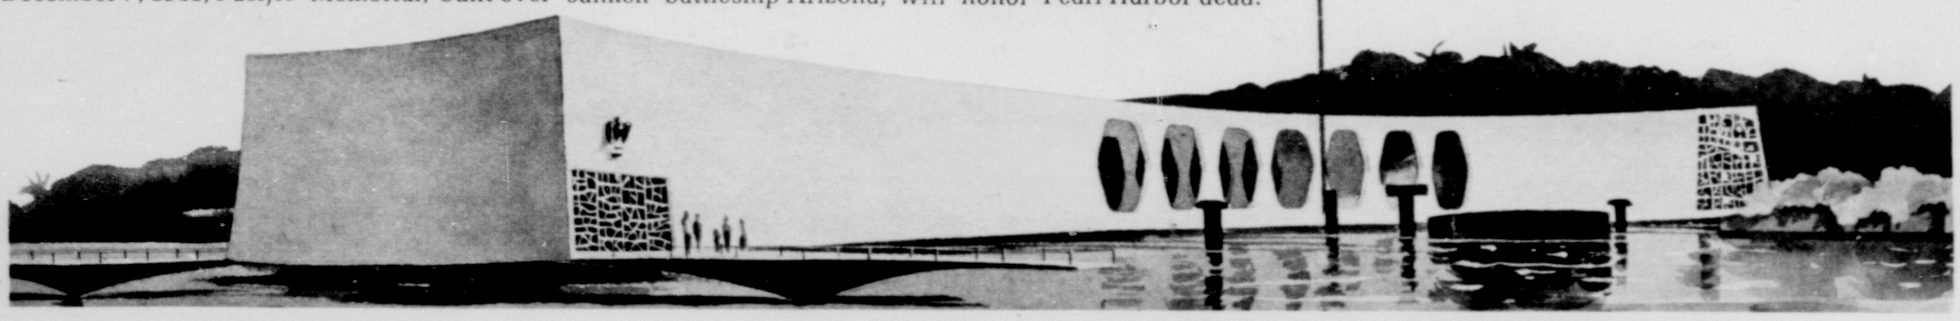

AT THE START of the war, the goal of turning out 500 heavy bombers a month seemed a pipe dream. And yet by 1944 our aircraft production became so spectacular that we were able to make no less than 1,500 four-engine planes per month. Brigitte Bardot (Continued from page 17) teered to bring one—from her apartment.

At least one director has used this adolescent attitude to good advantage—Roger Vadim, who discovered, married, and divorced BB, but who is still on the best of terms and may yet remarry her. To get the best performance out of BB, he would treat her like a child.

"Now, Brigitte," he'd say before a scene, "I'm going to tell you a fairy tale and then you act it out." And like a child, she happily clapped her hands and laughed or cried as told.

This childlike characteristic could be termed "cute," I suppose, even in a 27-year-old. But there are other characteristics of the spoiled adolescent which Brigitte's associates don't find "cute"—and which contribute to her own unhappiness.

"She Just Doesn't Care"

While I was in Paris, for example, Joe Vogel, amiable head of MGM, came to Paris for two days to see BB in his production of "A Very Private Affair." Until a few minutes before she joined Vogel for a hasty lunch, French studio officials feared she wouldn't even bother to acknowledge him.

Brigitte showed up all right—and rudely left the table after about 15 minutes. It wasn't that she had anything to do that afternoon; she was unable to work because her face had broken out, a long-time problem which is worsening, probably due to nervousness.

Why did she insult an important film executive? Why does she refuse to cooperate with publicity people? Why is she so often indifferent to everyone?

"She is not being difficult," her publicist told me. "She just doesn't care. She doesn't care to work, either. It's just a means of making money, lots of money."

For "A Very Private Affair," she gets $350,000 plus $6,000 a day for every day over schedule. Considering French income-tax laws and French salaries, that's comparatively more than Marlon Brando, Liz Taylor, and Marilyn Monroe make together!

BB, The Millionairess

Curiously, Brigitte never invests in her own films, although she admits owning "some" flats and having "lots of money" in the bank. Personal holdings, for tax reasons, are not publicized in France, but I was told by competent sources that she owns, among other things, a string of snack bars. Her total worth—all of it accumulated by herself with no help from business managers or financial advisers—has been estimated in the neighborhood of $4 million. And she hates to spend anything on herself.

She lives in a fashionable apartment in Paris' exclusive Trocadero section, but plans to move to the far less expensive, former Existentialist stronghold of St. Pres de Germain. To the dismay of the famous French fashion houses, she never spends more than $80 for a dress, usually runs around in blue jeans and blouses. Of the three cars she owns, two moderately priced ones were given to her as part of studio contracts, and are usually loaned to friends. Brigitte herself can be seen putting through Paris in the cheapest of automobiles.

But when her stand-in had appendicitis, BB paid all her hospital and surgical bills. Perhaps seeking to buy friendship, BB hands out gifts as a child gives away toys. Her house in St. Tropez is always open to acquaintances who have no other place to spend their holiday.

Just as her attitude and outlook on life have not matured, neither have her other personality traits. She has no sense of humor. Between takes, she reads horoscopes. She cries easily and can't stand to be alone. Afraid of solitude, the first thing she does when she arrives home is turn on some music to keep herself company or pick up a guitar and idly strum it. Mme. Rénal told me that BB is so terrified of being alone that she called her three times one evening to say good night, just to hear a voice.

Brigitte's search for happiness is conducted in an adolescentlike manner. What most 15-year-olds would dismiss as high-school crushes, she takes seriously. As a result she gets hurt, over and over again. Also, while she refuses to distrust her own judgment and stumbles blindly from romance to romance, she has learned to distrust men. In fact, she distrusts just about everybody except her family, Mme. Gouze Rénal, and a few others.

Reason for Her Distrust

Brigitte is not entirely unjustified in this respect; people she has helped frequently have taken advantage of her. Their favorite way is to sell "exclusive exposés" on BB to newspapers. Among the individuals who have done this are people to whom Brigitte has given considerable financial help in time of need. As a result, it's understandable if BB seems to expect the worst from anybody with whom she associates—friends, coworkers, employees.

Nobody knows better than Brigitte that her life is not what it could be. In her film, "The Truth," the character she portrayed seemed to have only one escape from the problems that life thrust upon her—suicide. As impressionable as any child, Brigitte sought that solution for her own problems, and with characteristic lack of success.

I got the impression there were three groups of people who have set themselves up as judges-on-earth of the child who is Brigitte Bardot: those who know her only by reputation and condemn her without learning all the facts; those who know her superficially and maliciously attack her for slights, real or imagined; and those whose insight has led them to censure Brigitte—but pity her, too, as a woman too immature to cope with the world around her.

And as this last group will point out, any wrongs Brigitte has committed, she has paid for. And the worst penance is yet to come—searching for love, yet being cheated of the maturity to recognize it if it ever does come to her.

MY LIFE has been one long series of hair-razing episodes.

I was almost ready for college by the time I was separated from my long curls. Mother had to sneak me off to the barber. Father was furious, but this was nothing compared with his condition the first time I came home from college.

I pranced off the train with a toy lamb under one arm and a poodle haircut over my head. A look of intense nausea crossed Father's face. He said I was so cute that he thought he might be sick.

Instead, it was Mother, and on the day a year later when they came to the university football game. I wore a kind of turban to the stadium, informing my parents with kindly tact that I had just washed my hair and couldn't do a thing with it. When the wind blew the turban away and Mother saw my crew cut, she burst out crying.

After that, I dyed. As I recall, I was a shade of questionable cerise for two weeks and pinkish-white for two years, the startling result of experimentation with a peroxide bottle. Father never spoke when we met on the street. He recognized me, but he didn't want anyone else to know he did.

THE OLDER I grew, the younger I looked. In an effort to settle into a dignified antiquity, I let my hair grow back to a natural nothing, wound it in a heap of hairpins, and became the poor girl's Grandma Moses.

A few months ago, my sister said she'd trim the ends of my hair a little. She whacked off a couple of yards and wrapped what was left into a clutch of steel caterpillars. The result would arouse motherly instincts in a ewe.

But there is a solution, and I don't mean wave-set.

Everybody liked my hair just fine when I was 10.

I wonder how many women my age have long curls.

Properly used, personal credit can raise our standard of living; abused, it can bring economic tragedy; here's how you gain the benefits and avoid the pitfalls

as told to Joseph N. Bell

EACH YEAR, I see records of hundreds of families broken in spirit and in fact by the misuse of what should be one of their strongest family assets—their personal credit. I wish I could meet and talk with each of these individuals and explain how important it is that he understands his personal credit and uses it properly.

Almost at random, I can recall a typical young married couple whose credit problems eventually broke up their home. These young people—like so many others in this day and age when great importance is attached to material possessions—simply couldn't be patient.

They bought a few basic appliances the first year they were married, paid promptly, and were well on their way to establishing good family credit. Then the husband got a small raise, and apparently the social pressures around this couple proved too strong to resist. They went financially berserk, obligating their income right to the hilt for things most people take years to acquire.

When the husband was laid off unexpectedly, his family was bankrupt almost overnight. The creditors went along with him for awhile, but the layoff was extended and he got in deeper trouble by negotiating a personal loan at a high interest rate.

Now, he's back at work, but his wages are being garnisheed, and his wife and child have had to move in with her parents because he can't support a home. It will take years for this family to work its way out of this mess—if they ever do. And all because

Properly used, personal credit can raise our standard of living; abused, it can bring economic tragedy; here's how you gain the benefits and avoid the pitfalls

By W. D. CONEL

as told to Joseph N. Bell

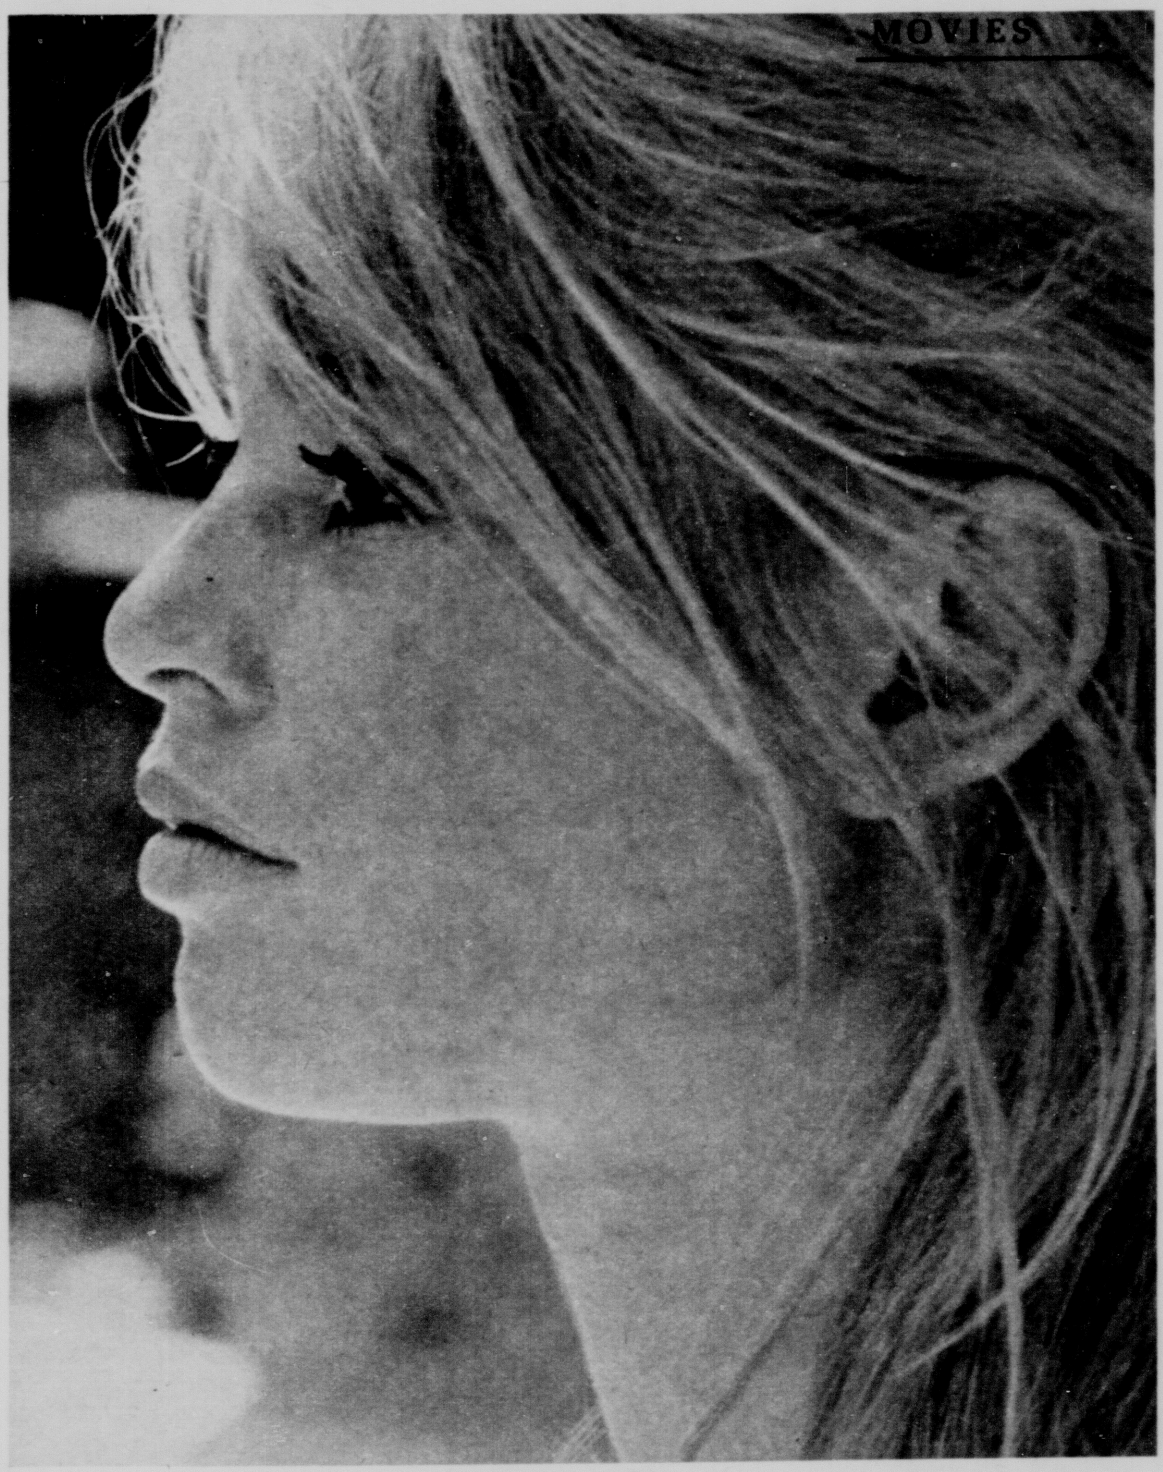

EACH YEAR, I see records of hundreds of families broken in spirit and in fact by the misuse of what should be one of their strongest family assets—their personal credit. I wish I could meet and talk with each of these individuals and explain how important it is that he understands his personal credit and uses it properly.

Almost at random, I can recall a typical young married couple whose credit problems eventually broke up their home. These young people—like so many others in this day and age when great importance is attached to material possessions—simply couldn't be patient.

They bought a few basic appliances the first year they were married, paid promptly, and were well on their way to establishing good family credit. Then the husband got a small raise, and apparently the social pressures around this couple proved too strong to resist. They went financially berserk, obligating their income right to the hilt for things most people take years to acquire.

When the husband was laid off unexpectedly, his family was bankrupt almost overnight. The creditors went along with him for awhile, but the layoff was extended and he got in deeper trouble by negotiating a personal loan at a high interest rate.

Now, he's back at work, but his wages are being garnisheed, and his wife and child have had to move in with her parents because he can't support a home. It will take years for this family to work its way out of this mess—if they ever do. And all because mean? Not even BB really knows.

Brigitte is surrounded by "friends," of course. She is astute enough, however, to know that her attraction is mostly her generosity and fame; without them, she would be all but isolated.

But Brigitte's failure as a person goes even deeper. She admits failing even as a mother. The mounting sense of inadequacy embitters her and plunges BB deeper and deeper into a life without values.

When asked about her two-year-old son Nicolas, BB avoids the question like a bad dream. Pictures of him are not available, except those taken shortly after his birth. I could find only one person who recalls BB ever talking about him. "I am in no sense a mother," she said, "and I could not wish to be described like that. I am not made for that role. I regret it, but it's true."

Some of BB's friends, unable to believe she is indifferent to her own son, insist that she affects coldness to protect his privacy.

The facts are to the contrary. She admits that Nicolas is living with her parents. One competent source says that she has not seen him for eight months and that Madame Rénal will probably adopt him.

The obvious question is—why? Why can't this beauty establish a relationship with others? And it is easily answered: she never grew up. Physically and intellectually mature, she is emotionally in early adolescence—a spoiled, rebellious adolescence. In a way, I got a key to the Bardot problem from Claude Chevereau, a mutual friend who escorted me through the iron curtain BB has erected around herself.

BB's World of Make-Believe

"Not long ago," he said, "I went shopping with Brigitte's younger sister, Mijanou, in a Berlin department store. To my surprise she selected a toy car as a present for Brigitte. She explained her sister liked toy ones better than real ones."

On another occasion, director Henri Georges Clouzot needed a six-foot Teddy bear for a scene in "The Truth," which stars BB. None could be found until BB volunthey exploited their credit instead of using it constructively and sensibly.

There are thousands of tragedies like this each year among the more than two million individual credit reports sent out annually by the organization I head, the Los Angeles Retail Merchants Credit Association. For more than 50 years, we have been supplying businessmen in the area with credit information on prospective customers.

Debt, once looked upon as a personal tragedy, is now an accepted way of life, and to an extent, the growth of personal credit has been responsible for the steady increase in our standard of living.

Serious problems arise, however, when this credit is misused—and it is a sad fact that as our credit economy expands, so too, do its abuses by people who don't understand the importance of protecting their personal credit.

Have a Credit Plan

What principles should form the foundation of a sound approach to family credit? I would suggest four:

1. Establish your family-credit program with a secured credit risk—that is, an obligation involving a piece of merchandise (e.g., a television set or automobile) which the seller can reclaim if you default. This is the easiest kind of credit to obtain.

2. Build your credit by using it judiciously—by saving enough for a reasonable down payment for a growing range of products or services, then meeting every payment deadline unfailingly.

3. On any credit purchase, pay down as much as possible and pay it off in as short a time as possible. And, as a corollary, be sure to check the cost of credit available and take this into consideration before selecting a specific source of credit.

The least expensive means of obtaining a line of credit is through charge accounts at your local stores. Here, there is no charge at all (except, possibly, for higher prices of merchandise, a point you should investigate) for a 30-day credit account.

If it is necessary to seek outside credit help, either through a bank or other lending institution, it is important to understand that it isn't just the amount you borrow but the length of time you keep it that determines credit costs. The debt should, therefore, be repaid as quickly as possible.

4. Be conservative in the use of credit. Never overobligate yourself. Be sure you have a margin of income over and above your normal living expenses and present credit obligations. Never tie up your entire income on time payments. When you do, a few days layoff or an emergency in the family can be catastrophic.

The American Bankers Association suggests the following rule-of-thumb as a limitation on family credit: "You may be heading for danger if you pay out more than 15 percent of your income on installment purchases." Observance of this safeguard will go a long way toward keeping your family from being tabbed as a bad risk in the files of your local credit association.

If you should get into credit difficulties and are completely unable to meet your obligations, then I would strongly recommend that you go directly to your creditors, tell them your situation frankly, and try to work out some means of repayment possible within your present straitened circumstances. Most creditors will lean over backward to help you work out a solution.

There is another solution, an undesirable one—personal bankruptcy.

I recall a recent example of this—and one which points up the fact that getting into credit difficulties is not a problem exclusively of the young and the poor.

IF YOU MOVE...

Many consumers run into difficulties in establishing credit in a new locality when they move. Even when their credit is absolutely sound, there are often long and chafing delays. W. D. Conel suggests the following four steps to expedite the establishment of credit in a new community.

1. Look up the retail-credit bureau in your present community when you know you are going to move. (Almost every town over 5,000 people has such a bureau.) If your town doesn't have one, any businessman can tell you the credit bureau used by local merchants. If you live near a large city and shop there, its credit bureau should also be consulted.

2. Phone or call on the bureau currently holding your credit records. Tell them you're planning to move and that you would like your file updated and sent to the credit association nearest your new location. (Every credit association has a roster of all other credit bureaus in the nation.)

3. When you arrive in your new town, call the local credit bureau, tell them what you have done, and find out if your file has arrived. If not, ask the bureau in your new location to query the bureau in your former home immediately.

4. Then, when you apply for credit in your new community, you need simply refer the credit manager to his local credit bureau. All the information on you will be immediately available, and the transaction can likely be completed on the spot—providing, of course, your credit record is satisfactory.

How many people actually do this?

"About 1 percent," says Mr. Conel sadly. "It would be a service to the consumer if this technique could be explained to more people and really put into practice."

When childhood constipation occurs

Because

Fletcher's Castoria is gentle, the prime requisite for a child's laxative. It contains none of the harsh drugs which are so often found in adult laxatives, drugs that can upset your child's system.

Fletcher's Castoria is liquid, so exact dosage is sure: from drops to teaspoonfuls as needed. Very important, too, Castoria tastes good. So children take it willingly, even lick the spoon.

Fletcher's Castoria is the only nationally-recognized laxative made especially for children of all ages. So why take chances...the laxative that's "right" for you can well be "wrong" for your child. Get famous Fletcher's Castoria today.

THE CHILD WHO IS

Brigitte Bardot

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

THE PEOPLE of Geneva, Switzerland, usually polite and reserved, formed in angry groups as an expensive French car pulled up. From it stepped a young woman, dressed in blouse and toreador pants, with blowzy hair, sensual lips, and swinging gait.

BB is possibly the richest actress in the world (thanks to easygoing French tax laws); her motion pictures are prime attractions throughout the world. But Bardot herself is something of an international brat, and many people, like the citizens of Geneva, are ready to cast stones at her.

I visited Brigitte for the second time recently. I knew what the world thought of her. Now I wanted to know what she thought of herself, and how her own world—the people closest to her—judge this off-screen and on-screen siren. Most of all, I wanted to learn what makes this lovely girl of good family drive herself to eyebrow-raising excesses.

"The one thing Brigitte is incapable of finding is love—love of any kind, even love of friends," said Mme. Gouze Rénal, a close associate of Brigitte and producer of her latest picture, "A Very Private Affair."

A Failure in Love

At 27, Brigitte is the loser in two marriages and has run through a gang of boy friends (sending some to sanitariums, including husband No. 2, Jacques Charrier, and others to attempted suicide). Nobody, however, is more disgusted with her failure in love than Brigitte.

"All I want out of life is serenity and friendship and the true love of a man who is not in the movies and can meet all situations," says Brigitte. But what does that

THE CHILD WHO IS

Brigitte Bardot

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

THE PEOPLE of Geneva, Switzerland, usually polite and reserved, formed in angry groups as an expensive French car pulled up. From it stepped a young woman, dressed in blouse and toreador pants, with blowzy hair, sensual lips, and swinging gait.

A man disdainfully flicked a cigarette butt at her as she walked by. A woman called her a name, and several others gestured insultingly. "Leave our city," somebody shouted.

Brigitte Bardot swung indifferently past them, but to her director, Louis Mallé, she snapped, "People are no good!"

BB is possibly the richest actress in the world (thanks to easygoing French tax laws); her motion pictures are prime attractions throughout the world. But Bardot herself is something of an international brat, and many people, like the citizens of Geneva, are ready to cast stones at her.

I visited Brigitte for the second time recently. I knew what the world thought of her. Now I wanted to know what she thought of herself, and how her own world—the people closest to her—judge this off-screen and on-screen siren. Most of all, I wanted to learn what makes this lovely girl of good family drive herself to eyebrow-raising excesses.

"The one thing Brigitte is incapable of finding is love—love of any kind, even love of friends," said Mme. Gouze Rénal, a close associate of Brigitte and producer of her latest picture, "A Very Private Affair."

A Failure in Love

At 27, Brigitte is the loser in two marriages and has run through a gang of boy friends (sending some to sanitariums, including husband No. 2, Jacques Charrier, and others to attempted suicide). Nobody, however, is more disgusted with her failure in love than Brigitte.

"All I want out of life is serenity and friendship and the true love of a man who is not in the movies and can meet all situations," says Brigitte. But what does that

CREDIT RATING

This case involved a wealthy, middle-aged woman, accustomed to expensive living. Her husband died, and within a few years she had gone through most of her estate. At this point, she remarried, and both she and her husband—each believing the other to be wealthy—ran up many thousands of dollars of credit purchases before the sad awakening that neither partner could meet the bills. Result: bankruptcy, a broken marriage—and another personal credit disaster.

While you are shopping for the best source of credit to meet your particular needs, the lenders, in turn, are evaluating you. Can you pay? Will you pay? And can he make you pay? The last question means simply: do you have assets that can be held as collateral or from which payment can be realized if you don't meet your obligations?

In order to answer these questions intelligently, credit men will take a detailed look at you from three different perspectives:

Do you have a good paying record? If you pay consistently on time (or at least within a few days of when you have agreed to pay), you'll show up satisfactorily here.

Are you stable? Individual stability usually indicates a good credit risk. For this reason, people who don't move frequently, who own their home (providing they have some real equity in it), who are married (and have children) are the least likely to leave merchants holding unpaid bills.

Do you have a verifiable and substantial employment record? If you are employed by a solid company and making a reasonable wage, your credit potential rises.

Over the years, I've found that most Americans are basically honest—and I've seen no significant change in this tendency among consumers since I've been in the credit business. Yet the sensible use of credit has never been less understood or more abused than it is today. The only way to correct this situation is to teach our citizens—particularly our young people—the meaning and importance of sound individual credit and what it can do both to help and hinder them.

Credit is a precious and highly useful asset in family living. It should be treated this way—and not casually destroyed out of greed or ignorance.

Quips and Quotes

A man had just bought a new sports car, and he took his seven-year-old son for a trial spin. He couldn't restrain himself from seeing how fast the auto would go, so he posted his boy in the back seat and told him: "If you see a man in uniform on a motorcycle, be sure to tell Daddy."

Off they went, faster and faster. The speedometer had just hit 90 when the seven-year-old tapped his father on the shoulder.

"Daddy," he said, "that gentleman you were expecting has arrived."

—Dan Bennett

Get Ready, Get Set . . .

Sing a song of swivets!
He'll hog the steamy sanctum

Baby's dressed and waiting,
And what on earth's she doing,
So quiet in the kitchen—
Opening the bluing!

Junior's in the basement
Accumulating dirt,
And sister's in her bedroom
Wailing fix her skirt!

And steady, woman, steady,
When, set to go, they chorus:
"Gee, Mom, aren't you ready?"

—Georgie Starbuck Galbraith

"Here's one of the wife and kids taken the summer of '52."

Two men bought a racing greyhound with the idea of sharing its winnings. It was entered in six dog races and finished last each time. Discouraged, the two men took the greyhound for a walk. Arriving at a river bank, one owner said, "That mutt can't race. Maybe we should drown him!"

The other looked into the appealing eyes of the dog. "Oh, you know we couldn't do that," he replied. "But I'll tell you what—let's run away from him!" —F. G. Kernan

The mother walked into the living room and found a scene of utter tranquility. Her husband was sleeping on the couch, and their little four-year-old was watching him in quiet rapture.

"I'm so glad that you're being quiet while your father naps," said the proud mother.

A Letter To Our NON-CATHOLIC Neighbors

Our families live amicably next door to each other and often become lifetime friends. Our sons fight side by side on every battlefield. We work together in the same shops and factories . . . root for the same baseball teams . . . do business with one another in a spirit of mutual trust every day.

In these and other phases of everyday life, there is a close association which promotes understanding and respect. But in religion . . . where this close association does not exist . . . there is often a regrettable lack of understanding and a corresponding absence of good-will.

Many people, for instance, have all sorts of false ideas about Catholics and the Catholic Church. They actually believe that Catholics worship statues . . . that many sordid things happen behind convent walls . . . that Catholics do not believe in the Bible . . . that Catholic teaching is pure superstition and the Mass nothing but mumbo-jumbo.

All non-Catholics, of course, do not believe such things. But enough of these false rumors are in circulation to cause some sincere and intelligent non-Catholics to look upon the Catholic Church with suspicion, and to reject Catholic truth without even troubling to investigate it.

It is for this reason that the Knights of Columbus, a society of Catholic laymen, publishes advertisements like this explaining what Catholics really believe. We want our non-Catholic friends and neighbors to understand us and our Faith, even if they do not wish to join us. We want them to know the Catholic Church as it really is . . . not as it is so often misrepresented to be.

It is also important to you personally, however, to inquire into the teaching of the Catholic Church. For unless you do, you cannot know whether the Catholic Church is or is not the Church established by Jesus Christ for your salvation. You cannot intelligently accept or reject Catholic teaching until you investigate it and know what it really is.

A distinguished Catholic author has written "A Letter To a Friend Not of My Faith." This letter has been published in the form of a pamphlet which can be read in a few minutes . . . and which gives a remarkably clear and beautiful explanation of Catholic beliefs, worship and history. More importantly, it gives a blueprint of Christian living which will deeply move you whether you accept or reject the Catholic viewpoint.

This highly interesting pamphlet is well worth the few minutes it will take you to read it. We will be glad to send you a copy free, on request. It will come in a plain wrapper—and nobody will call on you. Write today . . . ask for Pamphlet No. FM-23.

- 2 lemon slices
- 1 cup cold water
- 3 tablespoons (3 env.) unflavored gelatin
- ¾ cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons grenadine
- ½ teaspoon red food coloring

1. Lightly oil eight ¾-cup individual molds with salad or cooking oil (not olive oil); set aside to drain.

2. Cut pomegranates into halves and squeeze each half into a large saucepan to remove juice and as many seeds as possible. Scoop out remaining seeds with a spoon. Add the 1¾ cups water and lemon slices. Bring to boiling, cover, and simmer for 15 min., or until the color and flavor of the seeds have been absorbed by the water.

3. Meanwhile, pour the cold water into a small bowl. Sprinkle the gelatin evenly over water and let stand about 5 min. to soften.

4. Turn the hot pomegranate mixture into a fine sieve set over a bowl. Discard lemon slices; force pomegranate mixture through the sieve until all juice has been extracted. Discard the seeds.

5. Stir the softened gelatin and add immediately to the hot pomegranate juice; stir until gelatin is completely dissolved. Add the sugar and stir until dissolved. Blend in grenadine and red food coloring. Pour into molds. Cool; chill until firm, about 3 hrs.

6. Unmold onto chilled serving plates.

(real name Suzanne, also unheard since christening), and Bambi, 9. ("We named her Bambi," says Mrs. Silvestri, "and, wouldn't you know, this name stuck—the only other time this worked was with our poodle, Muffin.")

Sunny and Bambi share Shay's interests, except perhaps for chess. Her father, Anthony Silvestri, an auto dealer in the Manchester area, taught her the game and rues it. "Beats me regularly," he says. Dad, however, is still king of the cook-outs, and Shay shows no desire to beat him there.

"She's pretty scarce when there's cooking or dishwashing to do," Mrs. Silvestri explains, "but she works mighty hard at her eating. I don't know how she stays just 105 pounds, especially since she'd eat pizza for breakfast if we let her."

The Silvestris have just moved into a roomy Cape Cod colonial home on 2½ acres some 15 miles from Manchester. The older girls have their own suites—bedroom, playroom, and bath.

"I did my own decorating," Shay says. "It's unusual, I think—Victorian and colonial—but it blends."

Shay has a knack of self-expression (she's something of a high-style comedienne around the house, especially in times of stress) and a way of learning quickly—just the characteristics to make a Miss Somebody of New Hampshire into a miss somebody of every place.
